Widespread Search Organized for Slayers of Three Volpe Brothers

Pittsburgh—P—Over the highways and into the mountains and hide-outs of five states, police searched today for the killers of the three Volpe brothers, czars of the underworld.

A trio of swarthy men, one about five feet tall, the others six feet, are the object of the hunt which sent state police and highway patrolmen to cross-roads to scrutinize every passing car, constables and county officers into rural areas, and Pittsburgh police and detectives into waterfront dives and onto "hill" streets.

The Volpes—Johnny, Jim and Arthur—were filled with bullets as they lounged in a "hill" coffee shop shortly after noon yesterday. They recently attempted to spread control of liquor activities from suburban Wilmerding to Pittsburgh. For two months, Tom Mulvihill, homicide detective, said he heard the trio had been "on the spot."

The killers snatched into the eating house and calmly, without warning, loosed their fire. They sped away in an automobile bearing a New York license.

Behind them Jim and Arthur Volpe stretched dead on the floor, shot through the head. John had staggered to the street where he fell into a gutter, dying before a physician could arrive.

Waiter Is Held
A waiter, wounded by a stray bullet, cowered behind a counter crying "don't wanna be shot." The man, Santo Bizzano, is held in jail today for questioning. Police said he had been unable to throw much light on the shooting but they hoped to gain further information before nightfall.

Plain clothesmen tarried in stores on "the hill" hoping to overhear remarks which might place them on trial of the killers. West Virginia, Maryland, Eastern Ohio and New York officers have joined Pennsylvania police in the search.

Police Superintendent Peter P. Walsh promised the hunt would be carried on until the gunmen are found.

"We're not going to stand for out-of-town gunmen coming in here and killing our people, even if they are racketeers," he snapped.

Meanwhile, plans for a funeral which would full justice to their czars were laid by lieutenants of the slain men. Into the liquor establishments of the city and suburbs collectors moved, gathering funds for floral pieces and expensive caskets.

Louis Volpe, surviving brother of the slain men, is in jail facing a liquor charge. Plans to free him took shape.

The widows wept and swore vengeance. But from no source came a hint of who might have fired the fatal shots or who might have been responsible.

(By the Associated Press)
Detroit—Uranus, a pony, was a damaging witness against his master, George Thomas, Thomas, charged with beating Uranus, said the pony was vicious and had bitten him. The pony was brought into court. Thomas rapped him on the head, but the pony behaved docilely, whereupon the court sent Thomas to jail for half a month.

Muskogee—The Fort Worth and Denver railroad has put reverse English on the old custom of people suing the railroad. The road has brought suit for $61,401 against W. J. McFarland, charging a McFarland truck broke an underpass, causing the wreck of a train and one death.

Portland, Ore.—"Come quickly, a man's beating his wife," the police were told, but they got to the house of Bill Bletz, former heavyweight pugilist, they found the shoe was on the other foot. It was Bill Bletz, who had been receiving. He blamed his wife for the black eye and cut lip.

San Francisco—P. N. Ashley, land owner, regrets his tender heartedness. Once, he said, there were 18 elk on his 18,000 acres so he allowed them to stay. Now there are 500. They are eating his cattle's forage and it's against the law to shoot elk.

Equitable Reserve in First Annual Outing

Norton J. Williams, Neenah, vice president and field manager of Equitable Reserve Association, will be the speaker at the first annual all-valley picnic of the organization Sunday at Menominee park, Oshkosh. The event will be sponsored by the five Equitable Reserve associations which form the Fox river valley council, including Appleton. It is expected that about 100 persons, including members and their friends, will go from Appleton.

Assemblies from other cities in this part of the state may be represented at the picnic. It is planned to hold a similar picnic every year to provide social contact between the members.

Mr. Williams' address will be given at 1:30 in the afternoon. Ball games will provide entertainment during the day. The juniors of Appleton will play a picked team in the morning. Families will bring their basket lunches and spend the day at the park. A committee will provide coffee and ice cream at dinner, and coffee will be provided for the evening meal. There will be music during the day.

Concessions Wanted for Picnic Aug. 13 and 14 M. Kuehn, Dale, Wis. Adv.

Dance, Lake Park, Tomita.

3 New Candidates Enter Field for County Offices

Democrats Seeking Jobs—Republican Out for Assembly

Three more candidates today entered the county political race, bringing the total number of candidates in the primary election to 41. Of these 14 are Democrats and 27 Republicans. The Republicans have candidates for every county office, while the Democrats have candidates for all offices except county clerk and assemblyman from the first district.

The three new candidates are: R. M. Connelly, Appleton, Democratic candidate for surveyor; Peter N. Diny, 419 S. State St., Democratic candidate for clerk of courts; and P. W. Silverwood, town of Oneida, for the assembly from the second district.

There now are three candidates for the office of clerk of courts, two for surveyor and six candidates for the assembly post from the second district. The candidates for clerk of courts are: Sydney M. Shannon, incumbent, and Raymond Voight, Appleton, seeking the Republican nomination, and Diny; Connelly and F. M. Charlesworth, Kaukauna, incumbent, the latter running on the Republican ticket for surveyor.

Diny, an insurance salesman, came to Appleton about six years ago from Hilbert where he had been a resident for 17 years. For 14 years Mr. Diny operated an implement business in Hilbert and for many years he was school clerk of the village. Connelly, former city engineer for several years, is now practicing as a private engineer in Appleton. He was a candidate once before for this office. Silverwood is a former chairman of the town of Oneida and a member of the county board. He also served in the county highway committee while he was a member of the county board.

SERVICES CONTINUE

The special services at the Full Gospel tabernacle under the leadership of Evangelist Bartlett Peterson, Sisseton, S. Dak., will continue throughout next week. On Monday his subject will be "The Devil in a Vacuum." There will be no meeting tonight.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

Application for two marriage licenses was made today at the office of John E. Harschel, county clerk, by the following couples: Nicholas Verhagen, Little Chute, and Margaret Burke, Kaukauna; Cyril Lemke, Appleton, and Elizabeth Rutten, Little Chute.

Argonne Region Offers Sport For Fishermen

BY BERT CLAFIN

A very good fishing region lying not too far from the Fox River valley is that in the vicinity of Argonne. There are a number of excellent lakes embraced within a radius of but a few miles just north of the village mentioned. Among them are Franklin, Kentuck, Three Johns, Seven Mile, Silver, Spectacle, Lone Stone, Mud and others.

These waters contain no muskies, but they do harbor big northern pike, Oswego bass and pan fishes of many varieties. On one occasion my party caught northern pike weighing up to fifteen pounds, and bass, many of which pulled the scale down to four pounds.

I have in my kit representative lures of about every make, and I use them more to determine what appeals to the fish in any certain water that I may be on, than in an attempt to catch a large number. In the waters above Argonne I have always found that red and white plugs, such as the old reliable Bass-Oreno, were most effective.

There are many lakes in the state

Porto Rico Island Now Puerto Rico

Congress Changes Name Despite Objections Of Stafford

BY RUBY A. BLACK
Post-Crescent Washington Correspondent

Washington—You may think this is a hot weather story. But it all happened in pleasant spring weather in Washington.

The house of representatives had under consideration a bill to change the name of Porto Rico to Puerto Rico. The press galleries lost interest. There were no correspondents for papers in that Caribbean isle, although somewhere in town, missing what turned out to be the best show of the Washington season, was the editor of a Porto Rican paper.

As Rep. William H. Stafford of Milwaukee bounced to his feet, the galleries still yawned. Stafford is always bent over to his feet. Philippine Commissioner Camillo Osias, suave, scholarly, courteous, quick in debate, always a pleasure to hear, spoke briefly to urge that the Congress correct a linguistic mistake, for Porto is Latin or Portuguese, while the Spanish word is Puerto, and the island is of Spanish settlement and tradition, ending that to make this change, of no importance to anybody but residents of the island, would be "investing in friendship" and "doing something that will evoke the eternal gratitude of a people to the United States."

Still there had been no excitement. It was just one of those routine matters.

Then the new Porto Rican Commissioner, Jose L. Resquera, arose and made one of those speeches that really ought to be in "Of Thee I Sing," that prize-winning musical comedy satire on Congress. For Commissioner Resquera spoke of the distress it would cause a mother to have taken from her "first little piece of ribbon with which she tied the hair of her daughter." Thus Porto Ricans felt, he orated, about their ancient name, Puerto Rico, the name "associated with the tombs of our parents and the cradles of our sons."

That had its points of interest, but still there was no excitement.

Then Stafford got the floor again, rushed to a large unbridged dictionary, counted the number of times Porto appeared and the number of times Puerto appeared as names of places. Porto won.

Therefore, he argued, it should be Porto Rico.

Furthermore, he added, all the children learn from their geography that the island adjoining Cuba is named Porto Rico, and Porto Rico it should be.

He waved his arms, he shook his fists, he beat the air, all in favor of Porto Rico as against Puerto Rico.

He said it would cost hundreds of thousands of dollars to make the change. He soberly spoke of the cost of changing stamps and currency, and nobody spoke to remind him that Puerto Rico used United States stamps and currency.

Stafford and Lozier of Missouri argued over whether Porto is of Spanish origin. Stafford said it was. Lozier said it wasn't. He wouldn't take the word of those two Spanish gentlemen. Osias and Pesquera.

Keller of Illinois got up and said: "It would be just as foolish to compel those people to keep the name Porto Rico, which means nothing at all, as it would be to spell New York with an 'a', New York or to spell Milwaukee with 'u', Milwaukeee."

Applause and laughter followed, but Stafford rushed down the aisle toward Keller, shaking his fists and shouting:

"The mules come from little Egypt and Missouri, where they have mule whiskey and foul moon shining."

The galleries had perked up long before, but they got really excited at this stage, for it looked as if Stafford, red in the face, snouting with rage, was going to get into a fist fight with Keller. But he didn't.

Keller, by the way, once annoyed another congressman, and that gentleman always shouts from the cloakroom door when Keller gets up to talk, "Cuckoo."

But the final argument which may have had something to do with

Charge Oshkosh Youth With Theft Of Machine Here

Companion, Turned Over To Home Officials, May Be Returned to Appleton

Morris Schomisch, 17, 1334 Monroe St., Oshkosh, was arraigned in municipal court this morning before Judge Fred V. Heinemann on a charge of larceny. Preliminary hearings was set for Aug. 3. The youth was being held under bonds of $300. Schomisch, a Wisconsin native, 19, same address as Oshkosh, was arrested about 5:30 Friday morning on suspicion of having attempted to steal a car owned by George Pith, 825 W. Lawrence St., from his yard earlier in the morning.

The youths first denied their guilt and police turned Dawson over to Oshkosh authorities, who said they had a warrant for him charging him with larceny of a cornet. Later, according to Police Chief George T. Prim, Schomisch admitted that they had pushed Pith's car from the yard and that they fled when they saw the squad car approaching. The two youths were arrested. Memorial-Ex later Officers Joseph Rankin and George Behrendt, in squad car 2, when the officers recognized them as the youths they had chased earlier.

Chief Prim said that Schomisch and Dawson had been with a crowd of 14 or 15 Oshkosh boys and girls at a dance at Mackville and that they attempted to steal the car after their own machine had broken down and been taken to a repair garage. Chief Prim said that if Dawson wasn't convicted at Oshkosh he would be brought back here to face charges. He also learned that Schomisch was on parole from the industrial school.

ASSEMBLY CANDIDATE

Madison—P—L. Francis Lamb, young Madison attorney, has announced his candidacy for the state assembly from Dane co. Mr. Lamb was graduated from the University of Wisconsin law school in 1926.

The defeat Stafford suffered immediately afterwards came when somebody suggested it would be logical to force Porto Rico to be Puerto Rico as it would be to force Arkansas to call itself the way it spells itself.

An Arkansas congressman pointed out that the United States legislature had passed a bill providing that it be spelled Arkansas but pronounced Arkansas.

"And the legislature of Porto Rico has petitioned that it shall be spelled Puerto Rico," triumphed Finley of Kentucky.

The bill was then passed immediately, and the only concession Stafford could get was to strike out the preamble. The senate passed the bill. The president signed it.

Now it's Puerto Rico, despite Stafford and all the geographers in every Wisconsin school.

Sen. John J. Blaine of Escobedo had been appointed member of a special subcommittee to investigate the Department of Columbia, which government employees resist have not come down in proportion to other costs of living and in proportion to their reductions in income.

The department of commerce is preparing a report to make a Congress on the national income of the United States as the result of a resolution introduced by Sen. Robert M. La Follette Jr. of Madison and passed by the senate.

The report is to cover the years 1929, 1930, and 1931, including estimates of the portions of the national income of origin from agriculture, manufacture, transportation and other occupations, and the distribution of the national income in the form of profits, wages, salaries, interest, and other types of payment.

Immediate action will be taken by the Senate to hold a session of Congress in connection with the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence River water association in connection with the year of development.

Promises Women Cabinet Posts if He Wins Election

Upshaw Assails Both Major Parties for Prohibition Platforms

Madison—P—Former Congressman William D. Upshaw of Georgia presidential nominee of the Prohibition party, opened his campaign in "The Wisconsin" last night with the statement that, if elected, he will install women in the cabinet and start rigid enforcement of the eighteenth amendment by drying up official Washington.

Upshaw denounced both major parties for stands that have taken on prohibition. He said:

"If all honest dries who are dissatisfied, indeed disgusted with the total depravity of the Democrats and the pitiful evasion and moral cowardice of the Republican platform on the liquor question will be consistent enough to vote their honest convictions the Prohibition presidential ticket will be victorious in November."

Chosen at the recent Indianapolis convention to head the dry ticket, the former congressman selected for the first speech of his campaign the control of a state which he described as having a reputation for being "as wet as I am dry."

Some fifty persons, gathered in the state assembly chamber, heard him.

Upshaw said he was proud to be the first aspirant to the White House to announce he would give women a place in the cabinet.

"If I could remember that I was the only member of congress from Georgia who voted for the nineteenth amendment," he said, "and if I am elected president I propose to recognize the noble womanhood of America, the pathfinding pioneers in the cause of governmental righteousness, by putting more than one woman in the president's cabinet."

"Gross Ingratitude"
"It has been gross ingratitude and unreasoning discrimination that no woman has been put in the cabinet since the nineteenth amendment brought woman's political emancipation."

Upshaw dwelt principally on suffrage and the liquor question. He proposed that the eighteenth amendment can be enforced by an educational campaign and that a good start can be made by calling for the resignation of every Washington official who drinks.

He charged there was misrepresentation in the last congress about "balancing the budget and restoring economy through revival of the liquor traffic."

"You can't solve the unemployment problem by making the American people swallow a flask of liquor in order to get a loaf of bread," he said.

"And you can't balance the budget with a corkscrew."

Upshaw asserted that "hesitating, vacillating, equivocating and fabricating" politicians are attempting to evade the issue through a referendum vote.

If the people were allowed to vote they would approve the amendment, he said, but he held that the only course for repeal open to the vets is to "elect a wet congress, if they can, and to elect legislatures of three-fourths of the states," Upshaw portrayed the prohibition party as a "national necessity."

4-H Club Makes Plans For Exhibits at Fair

Plans for sponsoring a booth at the Seymour fair were discussed at a meeting of the Happy Hearts 4-H club at the home of Florence Krabbe, route 4, Seymour, last night. Misses Dorothy Muenster, Florence Krabbe, Lucille Silver, and Marcelle Inde were named on a committee to make arrangements for the booth at the fair. The girls elected Miss Bill Stern and Miss Alice Muenster as their delegates to the 4-H club camp at Onawa, Iowa, Waupaca, next week. Following the business session the girls worked on their sewing projects.

Visitors at the club meeting were Mrs. Orray Rohm, Mrs. Arthur Krabbe and Miss Gladys Zuehlke. The next meeting of the club will be held Aug. 12 at the home of Miss Evelyn Lemke, route 5, Appleton.

Says Kohler Made Omission of Tax Possible for Phil

Bancroft Asks LaFollette Claims Credit For Efforts of Predecessor

(By the Associated Press)

Levi H. Bancroft, conservative Republican candidate for attorney general, said in speeches at Waupun and Ripon last night that Gov. Philip F. LaFollette can boast that his administration levied no state property tax only because the administration of former Gov. Walter J. Kohler left a $500,000 surplus in the treasury.

"This boast is a form of misrepresentation which is an old campaign hoax of the Progressives," Bancroft said.

When John J. Blaine was governor he also employed that argument. But when Blaine got out of office it was found that his failure to levy a state property tax had put the state in the hole to such an extent that Gov. Fred R. Zimmerman, even by levying a state property tax would come only within $300,000 of squaring up the deficit, that forced Governor Kohler to levy a state property tax, and he succeeded in holding down the budget so that he left a surplus.

Speaking at Watertown, State Senator Bernard Gettelman, conservative Republican candidate for secretary of state, charged that the unemployment relief income tax sponsored by Governor LaFollette is so designed that it penalizes Wisconsin residents whose investments are in industries here, but allows foreign investors to go tax free.

"When I advocated an additional corporation tax so as to tax the corporations' profits before the dividends are split, thereby making all investors share alike in taxes, the Progressives cast the suggestion aside," Gettelman said. "The governor says that George Vets, who employs thousands of persons in Manitowoc and Two Rivers, is not paying a fair share of tax on the income he receives. Why doesn't the governor tell you that Andrew Mellon, the aluminum king of Pennsylvania, draws three or four times as much income from the Manitowoc and Two Rivers plants as does George Vets, but, being an out-of-state investor, Mellon doesn't pay one cent in Wisconsin taxes?"

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth H. Corbett, and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Jones and family will leave Sunday for a week's vacation trip in the northern part of the state.

Single Girls Spend More On Selves, Say Merchants

Marriage makes a significant difference in a woman's purchases, according to statistics from several Appleton stores, which reveal that the working girl spends more money on herself before she is wed than after.

"Price makes little difference to the average working girl," says one shop owner. "The average, youthful, single girl wants to be well dressed."

"She buys the loveliest underwear and finest hosiery before she marries and then after settling down, practical underwear and a second best hosiery fits in her wardrobe."

Bargain hunting is done by married women a great deal, in an effort to find good looking, inexpensive things to fill out a wardrobe. Another shop buyer declared that to be well dressed for many occasions, an unmarried girl will not hesitate to buy a stunning outfit with all new accessories where a young matron might like a gorgeous red gown but will buy a navy blue instead because what she already has will go with it so much better.

Good looks is the asset of the unmarried woman, who wants to be at her best during her working as well as playtime hours. When a girl marries, her home frocks may be simple and she can easily wear out her old clothes in her work.

When a girl marries, another store official pointed out, she usually has a stock of clothes which she carries over for afternoon and dress wear, thereby lasting longer than one season.

In department stores it is seen that the young bride swings her purchases from personal things which she bought before her marriage to departments, which include home furnishings such as drapes, furniture and domestic supplies.

Where as m.s.s or working woman will charge her new season's wardrobe in order to be well dressed, the matron makes her last season's clothes do until she can better afford to buy a new dress, which usually is bought for its utility values as well as beauty.

Here's How Home Loan Is Secured

Method Explained For Home Owner to Secure Funds From U. S.

Here's the way the federal government's home loan plan will work in actual practice:

Mr. and Mrs. Jones decide to build a home, or they need to refinance a mortgage on a home they built several years ago.

Mr. Jones goes to his local building and loan association or insurance company to get the money needed for the building of the home or the refinancing of the mortgage.

The building and loan official goes to the district home loan bank, of which he is a member and a stockholder, for 60 per cent of the total amount of the loan wanted by Mr. Jones.

In isolated cases, the home loan branch banks may make loans direct to homeowners who have been unable to get the money through a local building and loan or insurance firm.

Provision for this is still in vague and rather confusing terms and how it will work in actual practice remains to be seen.

Government officials expect that only a negligible portion of the loans will be handled direct.

The home loan bank gets its share of the $125,000,000 set aside for that purpose by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and from this fund makes a loan to Mr. Jones' building and loan association.

The R. F. C. gets its money from bond sales by the U. S. treasury, into which Mr. Jones pays his pro rata share of taxes. The home loan money, however, eventually is to be repaid by the homeowners and according to advocates of the plan, will not result in increased taxes.

Report Vladivostok Being Fortified by Troops of Russia

Harbin, Manchuria—P—Travelers arriving from Vladivostok, Siberia, report that Soviet Russian authorities are fortifying that city's harbor approaches on a large scale in anticipation of a possible attack by Japan.

Troops are arriving every day, they said, transported in closed railway cars and disembarking at night. Ten armored tanks were reported to be in the railway yards, and nearby are 50 tanks, 60 airplanes and numerous artillery units.

The travelers said trains arrive every day with munitions, food and miscellaneous supplies including material for building steamers, piers and small warcraft.

It was said the people of Vladivostok have been trained in the use of gas masks, in rifle fire and in seeking safety in underground shelters already prepared. Similar activities were reported at Khabarovsk and Blagoveshchensk.

Meanwhile the Soviet authorities are rapidly liquidating their interests in Manchuria. The staff of the Soviet bank here has been reduced by more than half.

Your Health Question and Its Answer

QUESTION: I am subject to spells of listlessness, poor appetite, nausea, dull headache over the temples, skin yellow, and aching across the back. Do you think I have kidney trouble?—R. B.

ANSWER: Your symptoms point to spinal impingement of nerves supplying the liver and kidneys. The yellow skin indicates bile pigment. Bile is normally found in the liver and intestinal tract, but due to impinged nerves, it is often dammed back into the liver and must find an outlet through other tissues. It then becomes a poison and produces a general condition of sickness.

The kidneys will attempt to throw off this, but if the nerves supplying the kidneys are impinged, these organs of elimination cannot function properly. An examination of your spine will

4 Candidates Endorsed by G. O. P. Group

Nelson, Mack, Schultz and Laabs Approved of Two Districts

C. C. Nelson, Appleton, Republican candidate for congress from the Eighth district, Mike Mack, Shiocton, Republican candidate for the state senate from the district comprising Outagamie and Shawano counties, R. C. Schultz, town of Cicero, Republican candidate for the assembly from the second district, and A. W. Laabs, Grand Chute, Republican candidate for the assembly from the first district, were given unanimous endorsement at a joint meeting of the Hortonville and Shiocton district G. O. P. groups at Hortonville last night.

Both the Shiocton and Hortonville district groups organized last night for the campaign near fall. Under the district plan, instituted by the Outagamie Republican committee, each of the six districts in the county will conduct its own campaign under direction of the county committee, which will unify the efforts. Robert O. Schmidt, chairman of the county committee, opened the meeting, expained the district plan, and pointed to the need for organized efforts to win the election. Douglas Hodgins then presided at the session.

Precinct committeemen named from the two districts include: Hortonville district: Walter Schroeder, Emil Dietzler, Ben Rude, Len Buchmann, and F. O. Smith, Hortonville; George Cuff, Hortonville, Albert Tesch, Liberty; Allen Kaufman, Dale, and William Schroeder, Greenville.

Shiocton district: R. Fischer, Earl Kuetner, George Loukey and M. G. Colburn, Shiocton; James Kennedy, town of Bovina; Arnold Krueger, town of Maple Creek; Peter Hansen, Deer Creek; Charles Balhorn, Bear Creek, and Arthur Bergsbakken, Maine.

After the precinct committeemen were named the group heard addresses by Mr. Nelson, Mr. Mack and Mr. Laabs, each of whom outlined the platform on which he sought office.

Conclave Agreed On Necessity for Boost in Prices

Canada and Britain Reported in Accord on Wheat Proposal

Ottawa — (AP) — A general agreement that the most necessary task of the Imperial Trade conference is to boost the general price levels of basic commodities pervaded every special committee today.

The committee on monetary and financial questions brought the question to a head after 24 hours of talk. As long as it takes twice as much of any commodity to pay off debt as it did when the debt was contracted, the committee decided, there could be no basic usability of money, trade or tariffs or any attempt to equalize values.

The committee's announcement came almost simultaneously with reports that Canada and Great Britain were believed to have agreed in principle on a wheat preference plan.

One Ottawa newspaper definitely announced that the Canadian government had demanded a preference rate of 4 cents a bushel in British markets and that it would make no deals at all unless it got it.

The Market for Canadian wheat in Great Britain would at best be no more than 110,000,000 bushels a year and with normal production that would leave at least 250,000,000 a year that Canada would have to sell in other markets.

Those who are opposed to the preference plan expressed the belief that it was hard to imagine Great Britain paying more for her wheat than it could be bought for in the open markets of the world. The net result of any such plan, they said, might be to substitute Rotterdam or Antwerp for Liverpool as the premier European wheat market, with the result that Canadian exporters would receive no more than the world price.

Plan Not Certain There was no indication that the monetary committee had a wheat preference in mind in discussing the necessity of boosting commodity prices to stabilize financial conditions in the United States during the last session of congress. The question of higher commodity prices was associated with currency inflation and deflation of gold.

There also were reports that Great Britain would ask Canada to reduce approximately one-third her present duties on cotton and cotton cloth. The British preferential on woolen and worsted cloths, one-third, and demand free entry or further preferences on chemicals imported from foreign countries and on electrical equipment, machinery, motor cars and coal.

minister of defense, and Chancellor von Papen, who ousted Severing from office a few days ago.

The chancellor's address was broadcast to the United States through the International Radio Forum, founded by Ira Nelson Morris, American diplomat.

The treaty of Versailles, he said, was the chief cause of the Fatherland's distress because it fostered radicalism of the right and left.

"But," he said, "whereas National Socialism aspires to national regeneration, Communism is directed against the cultural foundation of our national social life and is, therefore, a revolutionary movement and a danger to the country and to the world."

A few hours before the chancellor went on the air his foreign minister, Baron Konstantin von Neurath, told the French ambassador that when Defense Minister von Schleicher threatened the other day to arm Germany if the other nations did not disarm, he spoke for every member of the German cabinet and for the whole German nation.

Dictator Not Permanent The administration of Prussia by a federal commissioner never was intended to be permanent, the chancellor said, and the independence of the German states would not be violated.

Former Chancellor Heinrich Brüning, the tall, silent question mark in the campaign, was widely cheered by 20,000 people at the Sportsplatz last night as he addressed his last campaign meeting. While Hitler flashed about in his airplane and Thaelmann shouted among the Hamburg ships today, Brüning, the scholar, remained in his study, with his long black cigar and pondered the possibilities.

A financial report on the July 4 celebration sponsored by Oney Johnston post of the American legion at Erb park was given last night at the meeting of the executive committee at the Y. M. C. A. August Arens, post finance officer, gave the report which was not complete.

Other business discussed by the veterans concerned the coming state convention of the legion at La Crosse. Another meeting of the committee will be held in about two weeks.

Blaine Decries Great Burden of Debt on Nation

National Obligations of "Proportions to Stagger Imagination"

Crivitz, Wis. — Senator John J. Blaine here today in a campaign address that the government, corporations and individuals are in debt to the extent of $210,000,000,000 and that these obligations cannot be lifted at the present price level.

Assessing that the national debt has "reached proportions to stagger the imagination," Blaine said: "Every dollar that the government, national, state, or local owes, the taxpayer must pay. Every dollar that the railroads owe, the shippers and consumers must pay. Every dollar that the utilities owe, the consumers must pay. Every dollar owing on rented real estate, the renter must pay. Every dollar owed by the farmer, the farmer must pay."

"Under the present price level, if the railroads were to be sold at public sale today they would not bring the $11,000,000,000 of mortgage against them. If all of the farms that are mortgaged today were sold at public sale, the proceeds would not pay the aggregate indebtedness of about $12,000,000,000. If all the urban property, including homes, apartment houses and hotels, mortgaged today were sold at public sale, they would not bring sufficient money to pay the $800,000,000 of mortgage. The farmers haven't sufficient money to pay the $800,000,000 they owe. The taxpayers haven't sufficient money to pay the $38,000,000,000 owed by the government."

"The country is bankrupt because the unemployed have an annual loss in wage of $9,000,000,000, because the farmer is losing about $10,000,000,000 a year in incomes. Mr. Hoover has done nothing to bring about employment. He has done nothing to create purchasing power. He has done nothing to lift the enormous burden of debt. He has done nothing to subordinate creditors, making the government's credit, but in no way reducing the original debt. In fact, the Reconstruction Finance corporation program and every other program of the administration has pyramided the debts and increased the interest burden, with the government eventually holding the bag that tears the taxpayer yet further asunder."

Seal of Ancient Mizpah Found by Archeologist

Berkeley, Cal. — (AP) — As a message to the graduating class of the Pacific School of Religion, Dr. William F. Bade, director, cabled from Ramallah, Palestine, that he had found the seal of the ancient city of Mizpah.

Dr. Bade began his excavations at Tell-el-Nasbeh in 1926 and his present is his fourth expedition of Biblical research. This summer's work will complete his program.

Fifteen tombs and a palace in Mizpah are being excavated. Dr. Bade's discovery of Mizpah, made in 1926, was called one of the important finds of recent times and has given scientists the key to the ancient civilization of the Hittites.

Strenuous Leader

General Kurt von Schleicher, minister of defense in the von Papen cabinet, is credited with a leading role in the turbulent German political drama.

German Minister Expert Horseman

Friends See in His Ability With Steeds Reason For Political Rise

BY LOUIS P. LOCHNER Berlin — (AP) — Whenever General Kurt von Schleicher, minister of defense and power behind the von Papen chancellorship, has broken a horse so that it no longer shies or balks, he gets rid of it and buys another wild steed. Only unruly means interest him.

Von Schleicher's political friends and foes alike see in this passion for "raw" horses an explanation for his sudden rise in politics. As conditions became worse, his interest in state affairs increased. He projected himself boldly into the dismissal of the Heinrich Brüning cabinet and he was busy when developments led to the federal dictatorship in Prussia and martial law in Berlin.

This appetite for excitement may be the key to a character that puzzles even his closest friends. Although he "mixes" more than any other member of the government, nobody seems able really to fathom him. The former crown prince comes to have tea with him, but his friends deny that he is a monarchist.

In the reichstag lobby he is seen arm in arm with a social democrat leader, yet he insisted upon giving right of way to the socialists' most bitter enemies, Hitler's brown shirts.

One of his closest friends said that the general's political creed is: "The State—and not any party." There is one thing upon which all who speak of him agree: He is indefatigable both at work and at play.

At 8 o'clock in the morning he charges on a temperamental horse through the Tiergarten, Berlin's "Central Park." From 10 a. m. until early afternoon he sees to it that things run smoothly at the ministry of defense. No matter how high may be the mountain of work, von Schleicher manages to clear his desk.

The afternoon is reserved for cabinet meetings and brief, crisp addresses to groups of officers. If he finds a leisure moment, he reads Shakespeare or Goethe. Every night is his "night out." Usually at social affairs, the opera and the theater he is accompanied by his wife, Von Schleicher, who is 50 years old, was a bachelor until last year. Then he married a widowed cousin, nee Hennings von Treutfeld.

DEATHS

HERMAN LOEPER Herman Loeper, 67, died at 1.45 this morning at his home, 14 E. Spring-st., following an illness of several months. Mr. Loeper was born in Germany and came to America in 1893. He had resided in Appleton for the last 17 years.

Survivors include the widow, two daughters, Mrs. Charles Meash and Mrs. Esther Gore, and one sister, Mrs. Herman Weiss, Appleton. Funeral services will be held at 1.45 Monday afternoon from the Breitenbach funeral home and at 2 o'clock from the First English Lutheran church in the Rev. F. C. Reuter in charge. Interment will be in Riverside cemetery. Friends may view the body at the Breitenbach funeral home from Sunday noon until the time of the funeral.

WILBERT CLAPPER Funeral services for Wilbert Clapper, about 40, Oakford, who drowned in the Fox river at Combined Lake last week, were held yesterday afternoon from the Breitenbach funeral home. Interment was in Riverside cemetery. Authorities were unable to locate his relatives.

acres of low ground in Anacostia, a suburb.

This camp, like all the others that had been busy as bee hives for months, now is nothing but a ruin. It was burned to the ground. Instead of proudly waving standards, marking huts of leaders, charred debris today tells the story of an invasion by regular army troops and the subsequent flight of veterans before tear gas and fire.

All Shanties Burned All the other centers of bonus activity are the same. The last camp in mid-Washington to stand went, like that of Anacostia. Spic and span cavalrymen, bayonet-armed foot soldiers, carried torches to fire the shanties, gas bombs to rout the stragglers who had hung on with almost no hope, weapons to see that nobody resisted.

Then the cavalrymen, who started the cleanup after one veteran was killed and an officer injured in a clash between squatters and police, went home to Fort Myer. Most doughboys occupied a quarters-depot a few blocks from the White House but three companies stayed at Anacostia.

In the cleanup, 36 radicals charged by many with having incited the rioting were arrested by police. Questioned by immigration officials, all but 17 were released last night but spasmoidic raids brought in others who awaited consideration today.

The justice department went ahead with its own inquiry into the violence that made President Hoover summon the might of the army. At the chief executive's request, the now sitting grand jury got ready for its study, charged by Justice Oscar A. Lurhing to bring to justice those responsible for this violence and those inciting it as well as those who took part in acts of violence.

Certainly, CUT YOUR ADVERTISING COSTS

but WATCH WHERE
YOU CUT THEM

Charity is a wonderful thing,
but don't charge
it up to advertising

This is an age where trimming the corners is a necessity for nearly every type of business and profession. The desire to cut expenses, however, often has blind spots. In the rush to pare overhead costs — profits, too, can be chopped away, efficiency impaired, chances for future business decidedly weakened.

Particularly has this been found true in advertising cost cuts. Merchants, confronted with falling sales and diminished profits, rush to stem their advertising expenditures. Often, if curtailment is wisely carried out, profits can still be held up despite lessened volume, PROVIDING THAT THE CURTAILED ADVERTISING IS OF A TYPE WHICH WAS VALUELESS EVEN WHEN TIMES WERE MORE PROSPEROUS.

In the Appleton area there is but one medium which economically reaches EVERY prospect, which commands the attention and respect of EVERY prospect, for which the prospect PAYS. This medium is the Appleton Post-Crescent, which reaches more than 60,000 readers every day at an advertising cost per inch per reader of less than $0.0001!

There is no cheaper medium-per-prospect available and there is none to compare with it in prospect-interest. Certainly, no merchant, with a view toward maintaining present-day sales and building sales and good will for the future, can conscientiously afford to begin his advertising cost-cutting with his newspaper advertising expenditure.

He CAN save money by cutting out the "advertising" which he has been buying to please somebody else, to do somebody a favor, to satisfy his vanity or to "just be a good fellow." In every case this type of "advertising" is merely charity or a contribution of one kind or another. Its purpose is to help someone else along — not to build sales.

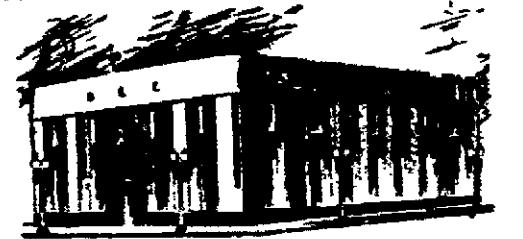

We are not trying to discourage the charitable habits of merchants in the Appleton area. As a class and individually, there is no more generous group. We do wish to discourage them charging up their advertising costs, the charity or semi-charity expenditures which conceal themselves under the cloak of advertising.

Let every merchant figure up his expenditures for "advertising" which he is buying just to help somebody along or because he thinks he ought to. It will be a surprisingly sizable lump of money. Let him cut this lump off his advertising budget, using a part of it to help make his business pay — the rest to invest in real advertising from which he can expect returns. Then only, has he cut costs wisely.

WHEN MEN BECOME A MOB

Certain elements, claimed to be violent and working for purposes of coercion, conceived the idea of inducing unemployed veterans of the World war to go to Washington and by force of numbers, the growing power of the mob, compel the payment in advance of the balance of the bonus and within two years of the payment to them of over a billion dollars.

Many joined up as a lark in a spirit of adventure and because they had nothing else to do, thinking, too, because of their unfamiliarity with the working of national affairs that it was the proper thing to do. The affair grew because many men in positions of authority instead of speaking the truth and faithfully facing the facts indulged themselves with the seductive charms of what they thought was popularity.

Now when violence and death ensues, who is to blame, those who were misled or those who misled them?

The shadow of the ragged marchers at Washington may not loom very great, but the thing is significant enough so that we all should familiarize ourselves with an essential rule of good government. It may be stated thus: any effort by force of numbers to influence legislation by packing the capital city, making demonstrations, obstructing a free ingress and egress to governmental halls or button-holing officials, will not be tolerated. There ought to be no necessity of having to argue the reason of that rule.

Its urgency is made evident by what has just happened at Washington.

Man for man, perhaps no more orderly bunch of men could be brought together. But ex-convicts, men of violence with twisted minds, sought to use them for their own twisted purposes, sought to make a mob of them, knowing that in the mob "man voluntarily descends to the nature of a beast," for circumstances are such that a "mob has many heads but no brains."

Almost without exception a disorderly group of men will accept the worst advice given them and reject sensible efforts at reason.

Many may have innocently participated in this enterprise and from inexperience or thoughtlessness failed to foresee and reckon with the lurking menace, but the performance has been going on for many months, long enough for the careless to collect their thoughts and appreciate the danger to the nation, to its dignity, and to the men themselves from their foolish, fruitless, expedition.

Most of those who have grown to years of maturity realize with Dickens that "the ocean is not more fickle and uncertain, more terrible when roused, more unreasonable or more cruel" than the mob.

THE OLYMPIC GAMES

Today at Los Angeles, California, athletes from all parts of the world assemble for the official opening of the Olympic games.

The history of these games reaches far back into the dusty pages of antiquity. Corobus is the first Olympic victor of record. Competing against sprinters from all parts of Greece near the village of Olympia, this home-town boy won the event that was then the whole athletic program of the original Olympic Games—a sprint race of approximately 200 yards. This took place in the year 776 B. C.

For twelve hundred years thereafter quadrennial contests were held, these contests being restricted to Greek and later to Roman citizens. What is now one of the great events of the Olympiad, the marathon race, was not included in the first games. They had been under way for nearly three hundred years before Pheidippides ran from Marathon to Athens with the news that Miltiades had chased Darius and his Persians into the sea.

Credit is to be given to Baron Pierre de Coubertin for the modern revival of the Olympiad, with the games open to all nations. First broached at a meeting of the Sorbonne, Paris, in 1892 the idea met with such favorable response from the leading sports bodies of the world that the first modern Olympic Games were held, appropriately, at Athens in 1896.

It was at Athens that Bob Garrett, Princeton track captain became the first victor in the modern revival by capturing the discus event on the opening day, thus carving his niche in history alongside that of Corobus, made 2,672 years before. Garrett had never seen a real discus until he arrived at Athens, having practiced at home with a crude affair fashioned by the local blacksmith. But he won from the Greeks an event traditionally considered as their specialty.

The coming event at Los Angeles is the tenth revival of the Olympiad and the second time it has been held in the United States, the first being at St. Louis in connection with the Louisiana Purchase Exposition of 1904.

Competing in the twenty-four track and field events this year are two thousand contestants from forty-five nations. Among them are thirty-two record holders, fifteen from the United States. The competitors are of such high class and the rivalries so keen that the 1932 Olympiad promises to be a record smashing event.

THE ATTITUDE OF SENATOR BLAINE

Senator Blaine will not support for president the man chosen by a practically unanimous vote at the Republican convention.

In this respect he joins with Senators Norris and Borah.

While it must be clear—entirely aside from Mr. Hoover's merits or demerits—that a policy of this kind by Republican leaders, were it to become general, would put us exactly where Germany is today with its thirty-one political parties, and the chaos and disaster they entail, supporters of Governor Roosevelt are quite likely to appraise these defections at a much higher value than they have ever been cashed at.

Four years ago Senator Blaine openly opposed Mr. Hoover but the latter carried Wisconsin handily. Senator Norris, who is much stronger in Nebraska than Mr. Blaine has ever been in Wisconsin, could not stop the stampede of his own state to the President.

Many such examples from previous campaigns might be cited. They show, in fact, a very gratifying thing. One man in this country may be given considerable power to exercise when he is elected to office. That cannot be avoided. But it is seldom indeed that he has been able to swing an election to someone else. Andrew Jackson did it and so did Theodore Roosevelt but we only get men of their calibre and influence every fifty years.

Moreover, the people generally resent this effort, as they often construe it as an attempt to lead them around by the nose. They feel themselves qualified to make their own choice and pull back at any effort to lead, drive or control them.

Elsewhere, too, Mr. Blaine's support of Governor Roosevelt may hurt the latter. People are likely to gather the idea that Gov. Roosevelt would uphold the Blaine standpoint. In justice to New York's governor there is, as yet, no sufficient evidence to so condemn him.

CURE FOR A BAFFLING DISEASE

Doctor I. Forest Huddleson of the Michigan State Agricultural college is credited with the discovery of a cure for the uncommon but increasingly prevalent disease known as undulant or Malta fever. He has developed a serum which is said to bring recovery within approximately ten days after treatment.

Only within the past few years has this disease been definitely identified within the northern districts of the United States. Originally discovered as a human ailment in 1886 on the Isle of Malta, where it caused havoc among a newly arrived contingent of British troops, it for many years was supposed to be a disease confined wholly to the tropics.

With its identification in more northern climes came a realization that many cases of sickness theretofore diagnosed as tuberculosis, influenza or typhoid were of the undulant or Malta fever type, the infection usually resulting from the use of raw cow's milk.

Recent investigation and research by the federal Department of Agriculture has established a definite relationship between the Malta fever as found in humans and Bang's disease, otherwise known as infectious abortion in cattle. The identifying germs are identical in both diseases.

The prevalence of Bang's disease in dairy herds has made it advisable that all milk destined for human consumption be thoroughly pasteurized to prevent transmission of the infection. Doctor Huddleson's antitoxin now gives promise of positive relief to humans from this distressing disease which has heretofore baffled medical science.

His serum does not have a corresponding effect on cattle, yet other vaccines of proved worth are now available which, if properly administered, may be counted upon to check this ravaging and costly disease in dairy herds.

TOWARD JUSTICE
Chalk up one for humane justice. The battle is on, but things look hopeful for William H. Collins.

Collins escaped from San Quentin Prison eighteen years ago. After living a model life as an express company employee here for sixteen years, rearing a family, he was arrested recently following trouble with rowdies who had insulted his family. His finger prints betrayed him.

Day before yesterday Supreme Court Justice John L. Walsh freed him in $1,000 bail in habeas corpus proceedings, expressing sympathy. Gov. Arnold Rolph of California has said he would not favor extradition and has asked the Supreme Court of his state to cancel the rest of the sentence.

The instinct of escape is powerful and natural, and the sixteen years of honorable living certainly should erase the old guilt.—New York World-Telegram.

WELL, here goes July . . . one more day and it'll be all over for this year . . . probably nobody cares . . . from the meteorological point of view, it's been a pretty hot month . . . from any other point of view, it hasn't been so hot . . . in fact, probably nobody'll feel particularly bad to see 1932 pass into oblivion . . . except the politicians who find, at the beginning of 1933, that the jobs they were enjoying so much are being filled by someone else . . .

Words of Cheer and Optimism

The bonus army battles had been getting even worse than when we first mentioned them. And, folks, if the recovery process tends to be too gradual, the bonus army riots won't be the last disturbances you'll hear about before fall and winter have run their course.

One of the very funny incidents of its kind which we have heard about lately is the one which occurred in Chicago a while ago when the passengers were ordered off a streetcar while a colored lady brought a baby girl into the world. Later, when asked what she would name it, she told 'em "CAROLINE." Myrm.

Mayor Jimmy Walker of New York, on whose deeper head the Seabury investigations have cast several shadows, has made his defense and we're betting that despite everything which Jimmy may have done or may not have done, that he'll be re-elected as usual when his term expires. Somehow, when New Yorkers find themselves inclined to talk about the communism of Wisconsin and the residents of the backwoods up here, we think about New York and its mayor and how the biggest town in the world is broke. Anybody, most typical New Yorkers come from Kansas and Missouri.

"How," asks one of the fellow-slaves yesterday, "are the chances for using the typewriter? Aren't you done with that column yet?"

"Nope," we say, "how about a couple of hot ideas so we can get finished up?"

"Well, I'll wait a while."

It's always that way. Pin these gents down and wotteraget? Right. Nothing.

Vice president Curtis will be notified of his nomination next month, the lucky fellow.

Wonder if maybe he hasn't heard about it already? We're sure that Dolly Gann—who is the unofficial vice president anyway—has told him about it or that he overheard her talking about it. Dolly is very easy to overhear.

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

FURTHER COLON PHYSIOLOGY

The fundamental or underlying trouble with a lot of people who suffer with spastic constipation, mucous colic, colitis, or some similar complaint is they know so many things about the physiology and hygiene of the alimentary tract which isn't so. The nostrum people, quacks and fad or cult healers as well as we orthodox medical practitioners, have taught them these things and are still teaching the same line of humbug.

In the antecedent talk about colon physiology we pointed out a fact that is seldom considered, namely, that the contents of the lower colon of man and indeed all mammals in health is dry, solid, formed in masses or lumps. It is a common mistake to strive to keep the colon contents liquid or fluid by means of cathartics, freak diets, bowel washes and the like.

It may be a matter of interest, that it has no particular hygienic importance, that from one-fourth to one-third of the weight of the normal contents of the lower colon in mammals is composed of the bodies of bacteria, dead and alive. These bacteria are not only harmless but probably beneficial to the host. What does matter and hence should be known by everybody, is that these germs naturally present in the intestine serve to disintegrate the food residue, splitting up gases and acids into products which are the natural exciters or stimuli of intestinal peristalsis or propulsion of the contents.

That's a lot for the layman to learn in a day, particularly when his head is already stuffed with the old humbug above mentioned. But the gist of it ought to be easy to understand and good to know: Ordinarily your own colony of colon microbes, if not interfered with—this is the IMPORTANT part of it—do not interfere with the bacteria naturally present in the intestine aid digestion and help to keep you comfortable and well.

Here is a little lesson which may be difficult to learn, due to obfuscation of the subject by the purveyors of sour milk nostrums. I hope it will help the bewildered layman to see more clearly when I say that the propaganda of the lactic bacilli vendors has had ten times as great an influence upon popular knowledge of colon hygiene as the various Bulgarian or Acidophilus preparations have had on the flora and fauna of the intestinal tract.

That's the end of the lesson for today, children. What follows is purely of secondary interest. In the small intestine the motor or peristaltic function is regulated by or dependent on such chemical substances as glucose, lactose, amino-acids, pepsine, glycerin and soaps, these being all natural by-products of digestion of a wholesome mixed diet. In the large intestine the production of bacterial fermentation of carbohydrates, and such gases as hydrogen and carbonic acid gas, are more active in maintaining the motor function.

A year or two ago some all-around specialists who know how to get front page space when their business needs stimulation, issued public warnings against the practice of eating wheat bran and similar coarse natural foods. They implied that such foods are all right for rabbits but too "irritating" for many upright mammals whose ears and alimentary canals are not so long.

Personally, I approve of the food in the form the Creator offers it.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Drowning
Does water enter the lungs at the time of drowning? If not, under what conditions does water enter the lungs? What amount of water enters the stomach? (A. F.)

Answer—As a rule only a trifle of water is found in the windpipe, and none in the lungs. Some mucous froth, perhaps, stained with blood, is found in the windpipe. The lungs are merely congested or overfilled with blood, as in asphyxiation from smothering. Considerable water may enter the stomach, mouthfuls which the victim is compelled to swallow as he struggles for air. Death is due to shutting off of the air, not to the water that enters the breathing passages. The entrance of a little water into the windpipe, however, may excite spasm of the larynx or choking which would contribute to the asphyxia.

Baby Teeth
Is it advisable to have a 2 year old child's teeth filled or pulled when they decay? (Mrs. K. W. H.)

Answer—Some of the baby teeth should be filled for their premature loss tends to make the permanent teeth irregular.

Boric Acid Souffle
Kindly inform me about snuffing boric acid for catarrh. . . . (F. M. R.)

Answer—I do not advise it. A reader reported that he finds great relief from chronic sinusitis by snuffing a pinch of powdered boric acid once or twice a day.

How Soon Resume Exercise?
How soon after confinement should a woman start the exercises you advised? (Mrs. W. P. F.)

Answer—As soon as her physician gives his permission. (Copyright, John F. Dille Co.)

Seen And Heard In New York

BY WILLIAM GAINES

New York—Broadway is as near deserted at 3 these mornings as the old-timers ever have seen it—so they say.

That doesn't mean that the Rialto is as sound asleep at this hour as Main street after curfew. But if you've seen Broadway, even in the past couple of years, you could tell the difference.

Formally dressed parties parading the street are so few as to be very conspicuous. I know it's summer, but there have been summers and summers within my memory when the old soup and fish and decolletee were no strangers along the lane.

The several surviving open-door night clubs that observe the 3 o'clock closing rule turn out pathetically few stragglers at that time with the one amazing exception, a place where the girls are pretty and the prices adjusted to conditions.

Taxi drivers do so little business that most of them have gone polite out of gratitude for a fare. The gyp joint steers are finding so few suckers that they are more vicious than ever.

Many shops that formerly kept their window lights on all night now darken them before the shattered army of nocturnal playboys and playgirls starts home. The remaining electrical display signs go out.

The midnight "matinee" at movie houses has managed to hold on, but the late movie-goers are out of the way by 3.

Every time I stroll the streets these mornings I thank my stars that I got a glimpse of Broadway when it was Broadway. When the old Green River sign crowned the clock at the north end of Longacre square; when Rector's and Shanley's and Churchill's afforded you places worth going to after the theater, and when, as a theater, as a proud and (we thought) essential institution was the buoyant spirit of Broadway.

Darkened Lights
There's a broken heart for every light on Broadway—so went the old song.

Right now there's a busted pocketbook for every darkened light on Broadway.

I have before me right now a list (not intended to be complete) of twenty-seven nocturnal joints of the swankier closed-door variety, compiled by my agents only a few months back. Such familiar names as the Rector, the Napoleon, the Silver Ball and the Five O'Clock club are included.

At this writing only six of the 27 are doing the same kind of business at the same old stands. True enough, the dry agents knocked off some of them. But Old Man Economy's raids were more devastating.

These places didn't advertise their whereabouts in lights. But some establishments wired for signs suffered casualties just as great.

"Broadway" Move
The institution we used to know as Broadway, including the legitimate theaters and the fun places of the bright light area, has been moving off of the street, called Broadway for years.

As for the street itself, today it might as well be called Moving Picture Row. "Broadway" found refuge in the side streets, in the Forties, and in the past few years has been fading from the Forties.

Where is it going? What has become of Broadway? I don't know.

U. S. TROOPS ADVANCE

Mr. On July 30, 1918, American troops advanced almost two miles at the scene of the bloody fighting of the scene of the previous day. The progress was opposed by Prussian and Bavarian guard divisions, of the German army.

Fighting on the Marne salient continued with great intensity, with allied forces making progress at all points.

Late in the day it was learned that the German high command had decided to abandon the Ourcq region and retire to a line approximately that held before the great drive in May.

Australian troops in Picardy followed up their attack of the day before by regaining positions lost in April near Amiens.

Police Again In Charge at U. S. Capital

Insist They Could Have Handled Job Without Army Interference

Washington — An end to the military phase of the capital's history-making veterans incident today found police taking over the job again and insisting they could have handled it had they been left alone.

Pelham D. Glassford, police superintendent, declined to retreat from his stand that the invasion by military had over-emphasized the seriousness of the situation. He reiterated that an order to him insisting that the bonus seekers be removed from federal property brought all the trouble.

He made no apology for being lenient with veterans. He denied he ever had admitted police were helpless. It was on that admission, District of Columbia commissioners said in a statement to the president, that they based their request for army troops.

Mr. Hoover, however, took a different position. He said in a letter to district commissioners that the veterans "were undoubtedly led to believe that the civil authorities could be intimidated with impunity because of attempts to conciliate them by lax enforcement of city ordinances and laws in many directions."

A result of the dispute was reports that Glassford would resign. He denied them, though. Despite the arguments, police went to work. First they raided a meeting of radical bonus marchers, arresting many, escorting a group out of the District of Columbia and holding 36 for questioning.

All But 17 Freed
Unconfirmed reports were that these men had been taken into custody at the suggestion of Secretary Doak of the labor department in a general drive against aliens. However that may be, the 36 spent hours at the labor department answering questions. Then all but 17 were released. Among the 17 were several Negroes, one of them John William Ford, 38, who said he was from New York City and claimed to be the vice presidential candidate of the Communist party.

After the labor department questioning, squads of police including plain clothes men who seemed to know the men for whom they were looking, began a new series of midnight raids about the town. Nearly 700 men called by 100 policemen and marched to Maryland with the warning that they had "better stay out of Washington."

"This move was decided upon, police said, because of the threat by radical members of the bonus army — accused of having incited the trouble — to stay in the capital, regardless of orders. As one detachment of them was taken across the District of Columbia line, a radical shouted at his police escort "we'll be back."

"We'll be waiting for you," a policeman retorted. Glassford had predicted that eviction of the bonusers from federal property simply would "turn them loose on the town" and make the police job harder.

Although Major General Van Horn Moseley, deputy chief of staff, said military phases of the trouble were over, infantrymen stood by for orders.

"Brown of Culver" Is Accurate Film

Tom Brown, H. B. Warner And Slim Summerville Are Featured

Strict accuracy was an essential feature of the production of "Tom Brown of Culver," the Universal drama which comes to the Appleton Theatre with tonight's Preview, with Tom Brown, H. B. Warner and Slim Summerville in the featured roles.

The story deals with boys' life at the famous Culver Military Academy in Indiana, and the preparation of the scenario involved the most painstaking attention to detail. In all stages of its preparation the picture received the active cooperation of Brigadier General C. G. Hall, commandant of the school, and the entire staff of the institution.

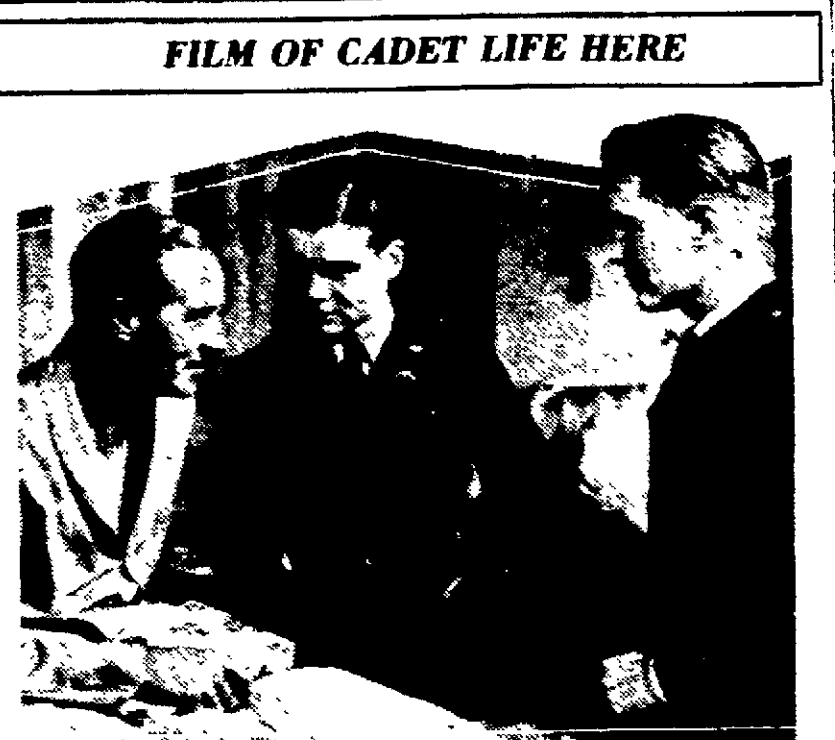

In preparing the scenario George Green, author of the story, went to Culver to obtain the correct local color, and the completed "script" was officially okayed by L. R. Gignard, later William Wyler, director of the picture, made a trip from Hollywood to Indiana for the same purpose.

Popularity of Western Never Seems to Wane

Styles in motion picture entertainment have gone through many cycles since the first flickering shadows were projected on a screen many years ago, but Westerns go on forever.

The "Western" is the only type of screen entertainment that has held its own through a period of years. Although cowboys and other "typical" western characters have long since passed into oblivion in real life, audiences all over the world still thrill to the pictured exploits of cinema playmen and cow-punchers.

Buck Jones, the Columbia star, is one of the greatest exponents of the Western thriller. For the past decade, Bucks' daring feats of horsemanship, combined with excellent acting ability, have commanded the admiration of screen audiences. "One Man Law," his newest production, is the current Elite Theatre attraction today and Sunday.

H. B. Warner, Tom Brown and Richard Cromwell in a scene from "Tom Brown of Culver," the Universal Sensation picture which opens at Warner's Appleton Theatre with the Midnight Preview tonight and runs Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

Stage Show Will Be Feature at Fox

Elite Will Show American Tragedy

"Forgotten Commandments" Is to be Shown
On Screen Sunday

On the stage at the Fox theatre Sunday only, "Mary Bruce's Hitting High Co.," a musical comedy smash! The orchestra is composed of an eight piece band who, for three years, made the Golden Lilly Cafe famous throughout Chicago. These boys are sure to drive your blues away with their peppy, rhythmic music.

With them is Ernestine Ford who played all the big houses last season with Sophie Tucker, also another outstanding member of this company. Mary Bryant, a petite soubrette is also seen to great advantage, performs in wonderfully striking dances.

Then there's Lewie Powell singing his own Southern tunes — "Ol' Man River" and "Lord, You Made the Nights Too Long." He's regarded as a one-man show in himself.

In "Forgotten Commandments," the case is headed by Sari Maritza, new blonde sensation from European films; Gene Raymond, handsome leading man who appeared with Sylvia Sydney in "Ladies of the Big House"; and Irving Pichel, the character genius of "The Miracle Man," and "Murder by the Clock."

The story opens at a big city University where Gene Raymond and his young bride, Marguerite Churchill, register in courses of medicine and social service. They meet Irving Pichel, famous surgeon, who has very ultra ideas.

Raymond is captivated by this bizarre philosophy of the man he idolizes, and soon finds himself practicing it. He begins to fall in love with Sari Maritza — Pichel's favorite. The show-down comes after an episode wherein Pichel causes the arrest of an old preacher who had been relating Bible stories to a group of homeless boys at the community center. Pichel has noticed Raymond and Sari leaving the building together. Suspicious, he discovers them later in a rendezvous, shoots them both and leaves before he is observed. Sari dies at once. Raymond has a chance to recover, but Pichel is the only one who can save him. He must decide whether or not to befriend the man he had intended to kill and finally agrees to do so.

Claudette Colbert and Edmund Lowe Co-Starring
A he-man duped into a proposal and scorned; an abducted beauty given retributive "taming" treatment by the jilted swain; a lunatic mad and amusing by turns, and loose in a hunters' arsenal chosen by the lovers for a hideaway, ought to give Elite Theatre patrons all the excitement, laughs and romance that can be covered by the price of an admission ticket anywhere.

Next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday's attraction, inspired Paramount talking edition of "Misleading Lady," a stage hit, co-stars Edmund Lowe, who has a strong way with women, and Claudette Colbert, who has a silent, but equally effective.

"Grand Hotel" to Show Here 1 Day

Cast Is Called Most Remarkable Ever Assembled for Film

"Grand Hotel," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's all star picturization of Vicki Baum's great stage success, will be presented as a legitimate engagement at the Fox theatre, Friday, August 5. It will play at this house one day only.

This is the first time since the days of "Ben-Hur" and "The Big Parade" that any picture has been "roadshowed" nationally on such a tremendous scale. Plans worked out by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer officials for exclusive first run twice daily showings of "Grand Hotel" in hundreds of cities throughout the country followed the overwhelming public response to the film at its world premiere at the Astor theatre, New York.

The cast of "Grand Hotel" has been conservatively termed the most remarkable ever assembled for any screen production. Five of the leading screen stars head the list—Greta Garbo, Joan Barrymore, Joan Crawford, Wallace Beery and Lionel Barrymore.

Other featured players include Lewis Stone, Jean Hersholt, Ferdinand Gottschalk, Tully Marshall and Robert McWade.

In New York City the advance sale of tickets for "Grand Hotel" is the largest in the history of the Astor Theatre. As a result of the unprecedented public demand for tickets, seats are now being sold for three months ahead, and from the time the box-office opens until it closes at night long lines maintain a vigil in front of the theatre.

Edwin Goulding directed "Grand Hotel" from a special motion picture treatment prepared with the assistance of Vicki Baum, author of the play. Goulding's recent productions include "The Trespasser" and "The Devil's Holiday."

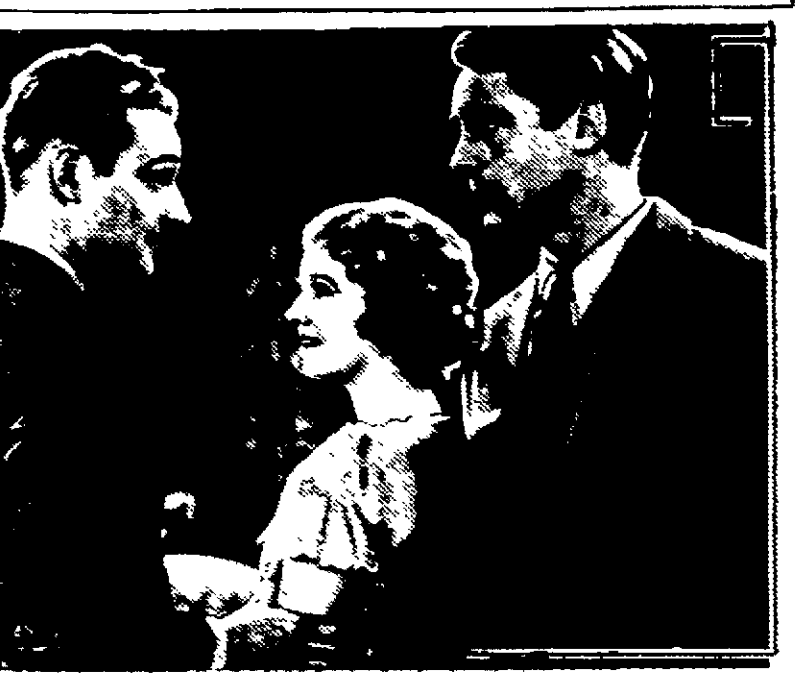

In "Grand Hotel" Greta Garbo has the part of Grusinskaya, the Russian dancer who falls in love with a pearl-stealing Baron (Joan Barrymore). Lionel Barrymore has the role of Kringlein, the invalid out for a final fling at life in the most expensive of Berlin hotels.

Joan Crawford has the part of the seductive stenographer, Flaemmchen, and Wallace Beery appears as Preysing, the textile magnate.

age-old story of a weak, ambitious likeable boy; a lonely "good" girl, and the girl's rich, beautiful, feminine rival. It marches relentlessly through its human phases. You live with its characters. Poverty, chance meeting, ambition, love—and all their agonizing consequences.

"Hollywood Speaks" Is Inside Story of Movie Colony Life

"Hollywood Speaks" hailed as a picture drama story giving a picture of the glamorous life of the movie colony, will be the next feature at the Appleton Theatre beginning next Wednesday.

Claudette Colbert who scored a big hit in Maurice Chevalier's "Chances With You" plays the leading role in this Columbia production which shows the rise of a young man from obscurity to stardom. Bar O'Brien, the breezy young man, appeared to such good advantage in "The Front Page" and "The Sign of the Cross" as the name of the man who fights her battles. Lester Praval, Ralf Har-

Members of Church Go To Assembly

A LARGE number of members of First Baptist church will go to Green Lake Sunday for special activities of the Baptist assembly which is in session there. Because of the services at Green Lake, there will be no services or meeting of Baptist Young People's Union at the local church Sunday.

A party consisting of Mrs. A. R. Eads, Mrs. Ernest Hasselblad, Robert Eads, Appleton, and Miss Carlene Rosboro, Chicago, left Saturday afternoon to remain for the two days.

The Rev. Ernest Hasselblad is teaching a course in the summer training assembly which opens last Tuesday and will continue all next week.

Mrs. E. F. Mielke's circle of ladies Aid society of Memorial Presbyterian church met Friday afternoon at the cottage of Mrs. W. H. Killen at Lake Winnebago. A luncheon was served after which an informal business meeting took place. A social hour followed. The next meeting will be the third Tuesday in August at Mrs. John Clack's cottage at the lake.

The monthly business meeting of the Senior Olive branch Walther league of Mount Olive Lutheran church will take place at 7:30 Tuesday evening in the church parlors. A social hour will follow the business session.

St. Joseph Benevolent society will meet at 7:30 Monday night at St. Joseph hall. A social hour and cards will follow the business session.

Parties

Members of a Green Bay card club and their guests were entertained at North Shore Country club and at the Sensenbrenner home on Lake Winnebago Thursday, when Mrs. A. N. La Combe, Green Bay, was hostess at a birthday party in honor of her anniversary. Luncheon was served at the club, after which the guests visited the F. J. Sensenbrenner estate which adjoins the club property. They then returned to the club to play cards, and at the close of the afternoon went to the Leslie J. Sensenbrenner summer home at Aloha beach, where tea was served. Mrs. Sensenbrenner was formerly Miss Anna La Combe, daughter of the hostess.

Members of the party were Mrs. George D. Nau, Mrs. Frank Desnoyers, Mrs. Earle Murray, Mrs. Joseph Murphy, Miss Rose Crane, Mrs. H. A. Bond, Mrs. Joseph Hoefel, Miss Edna Quinlan, Green Bay; Miss Selma Quinlan, Detroit, Mich.; who is visiting in Green Bay, Mrs. C. L. Henderson, Appleton; Mrs. Leslie J. Sensenbrenner, and Mrs. A. N. La Combe.

The last of a series of six card parties given by Christian Mothers' society of St. Mary church was held Friday afternoon at Columbia hall with 19 tables in play. Grand prizes were won at schafkopf by Mrs. Fred Stoffel and at bridge by Mrs. Amy Clemons.

Mrs. Mary Keelan, Mrs. J. M. Peters, and Mrs. Joseph Doerflinger won the schafkopf prizes for the week, and Mrs. T. J. Long and Mrs. Amy Clemons won the bridge prizes.

Another series will begin next Friday.

Mrs. Art Demand, 109 E. Hancock-st., entertained a number of friends at a 6 o'clock chicken dinner Friday evening in honor of Mrs. Peter Upsahl, Oshkosh, who is visiting in Appleton. Prizes at cards were won by Mrs. Henry Gleisner and Mrs. A. Brooks. Out of town guests were Mrs. Upsahl, Oshkosh, Mrs. John Broschek and Mrs. Art Schubring, Kaukauna. Covers were laid for nine guests.

Mrs. Emma Scherke, Wisconsin-ave, entertained four tables of bridge Friday afternoon in honor of her birthday anniversary. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Lucina Chandler, Mrs. Ida B. Lohman, Mrs. Cora Boelsen, and Mrs. Mary Egert.

Mrs. Howard Palmer, Nevada-st., entertained her bridge club Friday afternoon at her home. Prizes were won by Mrs. Cyrus Daniel and Mrs. Eugene Pierce. The club will meet in two weeks with Mrs. Pierce, Fourth-st.

Miss Becker and Leon J. Koestler Wed at Parsonage

The marriage of Miss Evelyn Becker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Becker, 108 E. Tobacco-st., Kaukauna, to Leon J. Koestler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Koestler, Sr., 1102 W. Eighth-st., took place at 9:30 Saturday morning in the parsonage of St. Joseph church. Miss Lucille Koestler, sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid, and Frank Grosser, Appleton, acted as best man. A wedding dinner and supper are being served at the Becker home to about 40 members of the immediate families, and a private wedding dance will be held Saturday evening at Little Chicago hall. Mr. and Mrs. Koestler will make their home in Appleton.

Engagement of Henrietta Pratt Announced Today

Dr. and Mrs. H. K. Pratt, 122 N. Lawrence-st., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Henrietta, to Roy Curtis, Jr., New York City. The announcement was made at a luncheon this afternoon at the Pratt home. Out of town guests at the luncheon include Miss Eleanor Lea, Elgin, Ill., and Miss Trudy Weber, Sheboygan.

Miss Pratt attended Lawrence college where she was a member of Alpha Theta society. Mr.

MARION TALLEY, PIANIST HUSBAND

Here is a new picture of Marion Talley, once the Metropolitan opera's youngest prima donna, and her new husband, Michael Raucheisen, noted German pianist, taken at the Talley home in Kansas City, Mo., as they made formal announcement of their marriage June 30 in White Plains, N. Y. Miss Talley, who is 25, retired three years ago at the height of her fame to return to her Kansas farm. Raucheisen, who is 43, was divorced from his first wife in Germany in June.

Churches to Hold Outing At Oshkosh

EVANGELICAL and Reformed churches in this section of the state will meet at South park, Oshkosh, Sunday, to hold a picnic service and the fourth annual joint outing. It is expected that more than 1,000, including a large number from First Reformed and St. John Evangelical churches, Appleton, will attend. In addition to the two Appleton churches, invitations have been extended to Reformed and Evangelical churches of Fond du Lac, Calumet, Kewaskum, Ripon, Berlin, Neenah, Black Creek, Cicero, Brillion, Dale, Kaukauna, and Green Bay.

The Rev. Karl M. Chworowsky, Elmhurst, Ill., will give the sermon on the subject, "Live Issues and Great Decisions." A loud speaker arrangement has been prepared so that all members of the united congregation will be able to hear the speaker and also the joint choir which will sing two anthems.

The Rev. Theodore Iron, pastor of St. Paul church, Oshkosh, will direct the combined choirs, and Walter J. Crawford will be the accompanist. The anthems will be "Rejoice and Be Exceedingly Glad" by Fred W. Peace, and "King All Glorious" by George M. Vail.

The prelude will be played by Mrs. Edward Seelmacher. The Rev. Paul Kehle, Ripon, president of the regional conference, will give the invocation, and the Rev. William Oelrich, pastor of First Reformed church, Oshkosh, will read the scripture lesson. The Rev. William Hackmann, Fond du Lac, will lead the prayer, and the offertory prayer will be given by the Rev. Paul L. Stange, pastor of Emmanuel Evangelical church, Oshkosh. An announcement will be made by Charles Mathias, and the Lord's prayer and benediction will be given by the Rev. W. Grosshuesch, Dale.

In case of rain the services will be held at Emmanuel Evangelical church, Oshkosh. Games and contests for the children and adults will be held in the afternoon, and there will be baseball games between teams of the various churches.

Summer Schedule Still in Force At Most Churches

Other than two Appleton congregations attending a valley union service out of town, the last church Sunday in July will follow the regular summer schedule of quietness.

First Reformed church and St. John Evangelical church will attend the union service of evangelical and Reformed churches at South Side park, Oshkosh. There will be no services here. The Rev. Karl M. Chworowsky of Elmhurst, Ill., will preach the sermon. In case of rainy weather the services will be held in Emanuel Evangelical church at Oshkosh.

W. F. Bradburn will preach the morning services at First Congregational church Sunday, with Mrs. Agnes Dean the soloist for the occasion. La Vahn Maesch will present the organ music.

"The Forks of the Road" is the sermon subject the Rev. G. H. Bhum will discuss at Emmanuel Evangelical church. Mrs. Lydia Dorman is the vocal soloist. No prayer meetings will be held during August.

The Rev. R. H. Garrison will preach on "The Life Plus" at the morning service at Memorial Presbyterian church. Mrs. H. L. Krieger, soloist, and Miss Freda Kopplin, organist, will present the music.

Dr. J. R. Denyes, guest preacher for the month of July, will deliver his last sermon Sunday at First Methodist Episcopal church.

"The Ultimate Discovery" is the sermon the Rev. Lyle D. Utts will preach at All Saints Episcopal church Sunday morning. Holy Communion will be held at 8 o'clock.

"Jesus Warns Against Unbelief" will be the subject at Trinity English Lutheran church Sunday morning by the Rev. D. E. Bosserman.

The Rev. R. F. Ziesemer of Mount Olive Evangelical Lutheran church will discuss "The Bible is not a Book of Comparison or Competition" and "When Do We Read it Right?" taken from the book of St. John.

Preparatory Service

Evangelical Lutheran Zion church will celebrate the tenth Sunday after Trinity. The preparatory service in English will be held at 8:30 Sunday morning with the regular English service at 9 o'clock by the pastor, the Rev. Theodore Marth. Holy Communion will

Social Life In Capital Slow in Vacation Season

BY DOROTHEA J. LEWIS (Post-Crescent's Washington Society Editor)

Washington—It is a quiet and very very slow time in the national capital with everyone away, just going, or just coming back. Parties are at their lowest ebb, save for special affairs.

An interesting "special affair" of last week included one Wisconsin man in its ranks. Dr. Stanley K. Hornbeck of the state department, who took his degree at the University of Wisconsin, was one of the guests at a luncheon given in compliment to the newly appointed Minister of China to London, Dr. Quo Tai, who stopped in Washington en route to his new post in England. The luncheon was given by the charge d'affaires of China, Dr. Hawking Yen.

Dr. Hornbeck is chief of the state department's division of far Eastern affairs.

Sen. and Mrs. George W. Norris of Nebraska are probably comfortably settled in their Wisconsin summer home at Chain O'Lakes by this time. They left Washington on July 21 planning to drive very slowly and to take at least a week to reach the Badger State. They will remain in Wisconsin throughout the heat and will then go home to Nebraska before Sen. Norris starts on his campaigning for Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The Norris' son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John Robertson, will probably join them in Wisconsin later in the summer.

for a week's visit with Miss Alice Owens in Georgia. Miss Owens accompanied Miss Geach on her trip to Europe last summer.

Miss Geach's "real vacation" however, will not take place until September, when she will go to California.

Lieut. and Mrs. Roland W. McNamee, son and daughter-in-law of Col. and Mrs. Michael Mark McNamee, formerly of Mt. Hope, left the Capital last week for their new post at the Tank School at Fort Benning, Ga.

Lieut. McNamee has been visiting his parents and his brother, Michael Mark McNamee, Jr., in Washington since his recent transfer from Panama. Another brother, Lieut. A. A. McNamee, is still on duty in Panama. The two brothers had not been near each other in duty assignments after graduation from West Point, until both were ordered to Panama and assigned to companies on duty side by side.

Miss Tracy Copp, formerly of Green Bay, is now absent from Washington on business for the Federal Board of Vocational Education. She is expected back after Labor day.

Miss Katherine Lenroot, assistant chief of the children's bureau, spent part of last week in Blue Ridge, N. C., attending a welfare institute meeting.

Miss Mary Powell, member of the June 1931 graduating class of Lawrence college, included Washington in her visiting itinerary last week, and was busy sight-seeing.

Miss Harriet Salisbury, daughter of Mr. G. G. Salisbury of Milwaukee, is spending the summer with her grandmother, Mrs. Harriet Wentworth, near Silver Spring, Md., a Washington suburb.

George W. Mead of Wisconsin Rapids will represent the Badger State on the notification committee which will inform Herbert Clark Hoover on August 11 that he has been nominated for the presidency of the United States.

A buffet luncheon to be given by the President and Mrs. Hoover at the White House that day will probably be the most purely social of the notification events. The actual announcement and the President's acceptance speech will be made in the evening in Constitution Hall.

Senator and Mrs. James E. Watson of Indiana left the National Capital Friday to drive to northern Wisconsin where they will spend the month of August.

A BOOK A DAY

BY BRUCE CATTON

The Journal of Arnold Bennett. One book which should have been called to your attention earlier is "The Journal of Arnold Bennett."

Here is a book which, of course, will not appeal to you if you are simply looking for a good story. I imagine that it will leave you cold unless you have an interest in what might be called the gossip of literature — unless, that is to say, you like to hear little anecdotes about literary men, get a peek at their private thoughts, see how they work and study their development over a period of years.

If such things do interest you, you will find Bennett's journal an absorbing book.

This book includes entries in his confidential diary covering the years from 1896 to 1910. It begins when Bennett is just finishing his first novel; it ends with his emergence as a famous author — one of his last entries relates that "The Old Wives' Tale" has sold 12,000 copies in the United States.

The journal permits you to follow Bennett's development closely. You see him tinkering with his work, revising it, analyzing it, trying to assay his own worth as a writer; you see him, too, uncommonly preoccupied with the sheer bulk of his work, and noting the profits as sedulously as a grocer.

There is not, perhaps, a great deal of depth in the book, but you can spend several highly enjoyable hours with it.

Published by the Viking Press and priced at $4, the book is the June choice of the Book League of America.

Committee is Named to Fix Prices on Food

City Seeks to Secure Food For Indigents at Lower Cost

Menasha—A committee consisting of three grocers and three meat market men, F. Rippl, S. Kalasinski, A. J. Seithammer, Alfred Ulrich, George Schwartzbauer and Edward Hoffensperger, was appointed Friday evening to stabilize the prices of groceries and meats furnished by the city to the poor and unemployed in an effort to assist the city in saving some money spent in this direction.

The meeting was called by Poor Commissioner Sensesbrenner, and was attended by a large representation of the city's business men.

Alderman Baldwin, chairman of the poor committee announced that the meeting was called to stabilize the prices of food secured for the poor. He said the time has come when prices on these articles must be held down as much as possible in order to save some of the money paid in taxes. He suggested that a uniform price be determined for 30 or 90-day periods. To do this the city must have the cooperation of the merchants in whose hands the whole matter rests, he pointed out.

Calling for discussions, S. Kalasinski asked if the individual stores would be able to sell as cheap as the chain stores, which have been receiving a large part of the city's orders. E. C. Schroeder, district manager of the Atlantic and Pacific stores replied that his company would cooperate as far as possible and would do its share in helping the city cut down expenses. He also outlined the method used at Two Rivers in taking care of people who live in the various stores. Where this is the case there the city poor commissioner compels the party to continue trading there and to pay for articles received. Mr. Kalasinski claimed the prices as lowered would not include delivery to the homes.

Must Meet Problem

Edward Sonnenberg suggested a committee of the whole. He said there was no hurry in appointing a committee until these men who furnish the food had time to express themselves.

"There is no secrecy to this affair, as it is the merchant who is going to be the greatest assistance in bringing the taxes down," he claimed. "The poor and unemployment relief question at present is greater than that of road building, and we will have to give all a chance, as there is a cold winter ahead."

Mayor N. G. Remmel declared the meeting was called to get advice on how to handle the unemployment situation. It is now costing the city about $65 a day for this work, the mayor claimed.

"In 1931 the city's poor list started to increase," he said. "The council has worked hard and, with a secret committee of 17 citizens, has solved the various cases in the city."

"We now are acting under a sort of dole system by giving the people the money to make their purchases with. Many cannot buy for themselves and for that reason we are going to discontinue the present system and adopt a menu system, composed of lists of the necessary articles of food. We will allow each person about $4 a week with which these articles named on the lists can be purchased."

"We have been trying to give work to as many idle persons as possible, and we cannot tax taxpayers beyond their means. We have got to meet the 1932 conditions. We are going to inaugurate a system of buying at cost, plus a reasonable profit to the merchant and in so doing help the merchant and his business along."

Jobs For Goods

"We have got to create jobs for goods and not money, as some of these people receive the money and spend it for luxuries and unnecessary pleasures and the money is gone. They live on sausage and bread, and one can't raise children on that. We are expecting to adopt a system whereby the laborer working for the city from the poor and unemployed lists will not receive the cash, but will be given foodstuffs, rent and wood."

The mayor reported that the $24,000 for the city's food, almost exhausted, but that these people must be taken care of. With the 100 per cent cooperation of the grocers and butchers, this can be carried out successfully he predicted. The mayor quoted the scriptures, which reads: "Thou must feed the hungry, take care of the sick and bury the dead."

Sen. Beck was of the opinion that the small store could not compete with the larger ones, which buy in greater quantities and therefore sell cheaper. It was explained, however, that all stores would have the same price lists for city orders. George Schwartzbauer was in favor of the price list system. Others who favored the movement were Spencer Payne, A. J. Seithammer, Harvey Nash, Alfred Ulrich, and Hubert Gollner.

William Chudecok asked whether poor people who own autos will still receive aid. It was said that a check is being made of these persons. City officials also will welcome any keep confidential any report of cars owned and operated by people who are receiving aid from the city.

The city attorney reported on systems used in other cities throughout the valley. Some cities conduct their own stores. Neenah and Menasha were the only ones in the valley trading with poor orders and means must be devised some ways and means of bringing the cost down, he pointed out.

Need Uniform System

"There must be a uniform system in the valley," he said. "We should have a school to teach these people how to buy. There also should be a uniform price charged by dentists, doctors, the hospital,

M'Gillan Seeks Seat in Assembly

Nomination Papers for Menasha Candidate Circulated Today

Menasha—Nomination papers were circulated Saturday for T. E. McGillan, Menasha, as a candidate for assemblyman from the Second district. Mr. McGillan, at a meeting of Winnebago-County Progressives Friday evening at Oshkosh, revealed that he would run.

Mr. McGillan was endorsed for the office by T. H. Hayden, director in the federation of labor councils. He carries the endorsement of both Senator Robert LaFollette and Senator John G. Blaine, and was unanimously endorsed by the Winnebago-County Progressive club.

Mr. McGillan has twice been mayor of Menasha. At present he is chairman of the finance committee of the city council, a representative from the First ward. A year ago last spring Mr. McGillan led the fight for the non-partisan management of the municipal owned water and light plant. When the question was submitted to a referendum, it carried by a four to one vote. He will be opposed by Nels Larson, incumbent of Neenah. L. D. Cooke, also of Neenah, is the stalwart ticket, and William Grimes, Democrat, town of Menasha.

The second district, which Mr. McGillan seeks to represent in the assembly, is composed of all cities, towns and villages in Winnebago-County outside the city of Oshkosh. He will start his campaign within the next few days.

United Danish Brotherhood to Meet at Neenah

Ninth Annual Convention Scheduled for Sept. 3, 4 and 5

Neenah—Arrangements have been completed for the ninth annual convention of United Danish Brotherhood and Sisterhood lodges of Wisconsin and Upper Michigan here Sept. 3, 4 and 5. The Brotherhood meetings will be held at Knights of Pythias hall on Church-st, while the Sisterhood will conduct its business sessions at Danish Brotherhood hall on W. Wisconsin-ave. Both lodges will join in the entertainment features, suppers and special meetings. The Brotherhood meetings will be in charge of Martin Mikkelsen of Milwaukee, president, and the Sisterhood meetings will be in charge of Mrs. Carl Nelson of Green Bay, president.

The convention will open at 12 o'clock Saturday noon Sept. 3, with registration of delegates. This will continue until 1 o'clock, when lunch will be served.

From 1:30 to 2 o'clock the Neenah high school band will entertain with a concert, after which the address of welcome will be given by Mayor George E. Sande.

The business meeting will start at 2:15 at both men's and women's conventions.

Supper will be served from 5 to 6:30, after which motion pictures of scenes taken in Denmark and at the various annual conventions by President Mikkelsen will be shown. Dancing will complete the first day's program.

At 6 o'clock Sunday morning there will be business up to noon, when the annual banquet will be held at Knights of Pythias dining room. Walter Thompson, Neenah, will be toastmaster, and the principal speaker will be President Mikkelsen, who will call on other state and local officers for short talks. During the banquet the Brage choir of Kenosha will present a musical program. Frank Lawson, of Omaha, Neb., supreme secretary, is expected to be on the program.

Trip Around Valley

At 2:30 the visitors will be taken for an automobile ride about the twin cities, Appleton and Kaukauna. Upon returning supper will be served.

At 8 o'clock the convention will shift to the high school auditorium, where a Danish play of the period of 1848 will be given by members of the Neenah Brotherhood and Sisterhood.

The cast:

Uniaeger Vosberg—Walter Thompson.

Whiting Estate Tax Totals $318,946.20

Neenah—Final figures covering the total inheritance tax obtained by the state of Wisconsin in the $3,500,000 estate of George A. Whiting, Neenah, were available Friday in county court.

The records show that a tax of $387,052.47 was paid to E. E. Fuller, county treasurer, in June, 1931, on an estimate as to the tax to be paid. Actual compilation of the tax shows the total due the state to be $318,946.20, minus credit of 5 per cent on the $287,052.47 payment, because within the period of one year following the death of Mr. Whiting. The actual balance in addition to the $287,052.47 already paid the county treasurer is $14,783.72. The total estimate amounts to $350,102.85, the figures now on file with the county show. The tax is the largest ever paid in Winnebago-co.

See Bonus as Minor Issue In Election

Agitation Deemed Unlikely To Bulk Large as Important Factor

BY BYRON PRICE

Washington—In spite of all the excitement in Washington, there is no indication the bonus agitation will cut much ice on election day. Plenty of placards bearing President Hoover have been on display in the bonus camp, but most of the votes behind those placards probably would have gone against the republicans anyway on the score of the depression and unemployment, political observers believe.

It must be remembered that the American legion—which numbers its millions where the B. E. F. numbers its thousands—rejected a bonus resolution at the Detroit convention after a special appeal from the president.

Legion officials later were much displeased when the administration recommended cuts in certain already authorized veterans' allowances, and the legion stood by and watched during the administration's subsequent troubles with the Washington paraders.

But evidence is wholly lacking that the legion intends to take the issue into the campaign.

Pinchot For President?

Governor Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania is being boomed for the prohibition party nomination for president, in place of William D. Upshaw, who has said he would hand over the standard given him at Indianapolis if any outstanding leader could be induced to accept it.

Some of those on the inside of prohibition affairs have been told Pinchot would bolt Hoover and run if two or more of the big dry organizations—which do not ordinarily flock with the prohibition party—would support him. So far, this condition has not been met.

It now is generally assumed among Washington politicians that Mr. Hoover will include in his forth-coming acceptance speech a definite gesture toward the organized dries.

His form is expected by some prohibition leaders who have talked with him to be something like this: "The supporters of the eighteenth amendment would be wise to recognize the present strength of the opposition, and to resolve among themselves that if a change is to be made, the task should be left in the hands of the friends of prohibition, rather than entrusted to those who have been its enemies."

Love-Feasts

This is a season of reconciliation among the democrats. One by one the pro-Smith leaders are signing up under Roosevelt.

The development is news, considering the previous hesitation. But the more important news will develop at the ballot box in November, when it will be known how many of the pro-Smith rank and file also fell into line.

Feeling ran strong at the Chicago convention, and those who remember 1924 and 1928 know that the conciliatory words of leaders do not always deliver the votes.

It is interesting that in spite of the various love-feasts in the Smith eastern block of states, the latest election forecast to emanate from high democratic quarters omits Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island and New Jersey from the "probably democratic" column, and lists them as doubtful.

Borah Again

Senator Borah has done it again. At a time when both parties apparently thought they had the war debt problem safely asleep until after the election, the versatile Idaho independent set off a cannon cracker by his proposal that the facts be recognized and something done about them now.

The reverberations contribute one more chapter to a career which probably has worried more politicians than any other of our time.

Utility to Change Schedule of Busses

Neenah—City Attorney John O'Leary of Neenah and Melvin Crowley of Menasha met Friday afternoon with Wisconsin Michigan Power company officials at Appleton to discuss bus service between the two cities. Inasmuch as the busses were put out of operation until a hearing of the officials felt they had the right to take them off when they so desired or when it was shown the busses are not a paying proposition.

Nevertheless, it was decided to start half hour service at 11:30 Monday morning by setting the regular Appleton-Neenah bus leaving here at 1:30 back to 11:30, at which time the new schedule will begin. The half hour service will continue throughout the day, taking the 12:30 bus off the run entirely.

A report of the outcome of the Friday afternoon meeting is to be made Tuesday evening at the Menasha council meeting and on Wednesday evening at the Neenah council meeting.

UNCLE SAM'S NEW TAXES

WHERE THEY HIT YOU—AND HOW!

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fifth of 20 daily articles explaining the new federal taxes.

BY ROBERT TALLEY (Copyright, 1932, NEA Service, Inc.)

Every time you toast a slice of bread on your electric toaster, heat and coffee in your electric percolator, turn on your AC radio set, sweep your rugs with the vacuum cleaner, turn on the lights in your home or do any of the countless other things that household electricity accomplishes in this modern age you are helping Uncle Sam balance his 1932 budget.

If you own an electric clock you are paying taxes 24 hours a day—all of which may seem perfectly shocking, but it is merely a part of your "current" expenses.

For there is now a tax of 3 per cent of the cost on all electricity used for domestic and commercial purposes, designed to yield an additional $50,000,000 for the government this year. The law says it must be paid by the consumer.

Collection of this tax, however, need cause you no worry. Your electric company and Uncle Sam attend to that for you. The company will add 3 per cent to your monthly bill, pay this to the tax collector.

If you buy electricity at a flat rate, you must pay the tax whether you use the current or not, since the levy is based on rate instead of on consumption.

In many cities, the average household electric bill is about $3 a month. This means a tax of 15 cents a month, or $1.80 a year.

The law says the tax applies to electrical energy "for domestic or commercial consumption," which means homes, stores, etc. It exempts electrical energy furnished for "industrial consumption." Such exemptions include electricity used for manufacturing, mining, refining, building construction, railroads, telephone, telegraph and radio facilities, etc.

Newspapers are officially classed as industrial enterprises and are therefore exempt from the tax.

Also exempt is electricity used by the federal government states, cities, counties and towns.

sumed that he could be any more successful in handling the finances of the federal government which run into the billions," the senator asked.

In his acceptance speech, the speaker said, the Democratic candidate announced that "as an immediate program of action useless offices must be abolished, that others must be merged."

The Democratic party controlled the house of representatives in the last session of congress, Dickinson said, but its leaders were unable to get their program enacted because of revolt in the senate ranks.

He assailed the Democratic promise of a "competitive" tariff for revenue, as a peril to the American farmer and declared the republican Hawley-Smoot tariff had reduced materially agricultural imports.

Taking up the Democratic platform declaration for restoration of agriculture through "extension and development of the farm cooperative movement and effective control of crop surpluses," the senator said these proposals were begun and carried through to the statute book by republican leadership.

Aid For Agriculture

He itemized the sums placed at the disposal of agriculture the past three years by the Republican party as: Half a billion dollars through the farm board, one hundred twenty-five million dollars to strengthen the farm loan system, $200,000,000 for farmer and through the Reconstruction Finance corporation, and nearly $75,000,000 placed through the corporation in intermediate credit debentures for loans to farmers, a total of nearly one billion dollars.

He criticized the Democratic stand on the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence seaway as "questionable," asserting the platform failed to mention the project. He declared also that New York state has always opposed the St. Lawrence gateway, favoring instead its state barge canal via the Hudson river.

He said Gov. Roosevelt's "new deal" should start with answers to the question "were other trades involved in the Democratic convention bartering," which preceded his nomination.

Twin City Deaths

MRS. HENRY LAUS

Menasha—The funeral of Mrs. Henry Laus, who died Wednesday evening from a heart attack, was held at 9 o'clock Saturday morning at St. Mary church. The services were conducted by the Rev. John Hummel. Burial was at St. Mary cemetery. Bearers were E. R. Kellenhauser, Frank Tummitt, Henry Schirmerling, Carl Hack, Carl Voissem and Peter J. Jung.

President Has No Voice in Change Of Constitution

Final Action on Prohibition Law Almost Impossible Before 1936

(This is the second of three dispatches on the questions of procedure involved in repealing or modifying the eighteenth amendment.)

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—What would happen with respect to the eighteenth amendment if a Republican president and congress are elected this autumn or if a Democratic president and a Democratic congress?

The president of the United States according to constitutional practice has no voice in the making or unmaking of a constitutional amendment. Just why this is so is not apparent from the proceedings of the original constitutional convention. Presidents in the past have advocated new amendments as a matter of public policy but president has ever declared for the repeal of an amendment or any part of the constitution in the sense of reducing or removing federal power once granted. Modifications and additions have been made but there has been no subtraction. Some constitutional authorities think the reason for the elimination of the presidential part in making constitutional amendments is due to the fact that a two-thirds vote is required anyway of both houses and the veto power would be superfluous, since if a president disapproves a bill he can compel a two-thirds vote before it can become law.

Another Argument

Other authorities feel that the president was purposely eliminated, since he is the chief enforcing officer under the constitution and in a sense the leading figure under the constitution, and that it might be a contradiction or inconsistency for him to be agitating for the weakening of any part of the constitution which he is supposed to enforce.

But the president may in the case of the prohibition controversy play some part if the calling of an extra session becomes necessary to expedite consideration. He would of course be a controlling figure if attempts were made to modify the Volstead act so as to try to do that which up to now it has been assumed by a majority of both houses of congress it cannot do, namely, legalize the manufacture of light wines and beer. But this then would become a matter of legal interpretation to ascertain whether the constitution was being nullified.

As for the eighteenth amendment itself, on which so many of the wets have centered their attack, believing modification of the Volstead act might only serve to delay action on the constitution question, whether he is Republican or Democratic, unless he felt obligated to try to use his office to influence the voting in congress. He might play a political part but he could do little else.

No Early Repeal

Assuming that the present congress which meets in December doesn't change its mind about the existing eighteenth amendment, there is nowhere near a two-thirds vote of both houses in favor of a change like repeal. Some sentiment for modification of the amendment might develop if a plan that looked satisfactory to the moderates in both the wet and dry camps is evolved, but on the issue of straightout repeal there isn't the slightest chance of adoption in the December session which ends automatically March 4.

But the new congress elected at the polls this autumn might be conscious of a different public sentiment than that on which the present congress was elected. If this is so, then in order to bring the new congress into action an extra session would have to be called in the spring of 1933. Other problems besides prohibition will force an extra session no matter whether the Republican or Democratic nominee for the presidency is victorious.

What will the result be if a Democratic congress is elected? The Democrats have a dry faction in the south. The platform is for repeal but men like Senator Carter Glass of Virginia are really for modification of the eighteenth amendment. His proposal reads exactly like the Republican platform objectives. The Republican congress would have a dry faction from the west while majority leaning toward the wet side is considered probable in political circles, due to the way the national conventions reacted to wet sentiment, there is little ground for the belief that two-thirds of both houses of the new congress would favor repeal without a substitute of any kind. The dries feel they have enough districts in the west and south in both parties to block approval of outright repeal. They are not so confident about proposals like the Republican plank which aim at modification.

Dry Lean To G. O. P.

Yet it is curious that the dries, instead of being content with the Democratic plank in the controversy as being the easier to beat, are leaning toward the Republican side where the platform plank is more dangerous to them from a strategic standpoint. It may be of course that they are preparing to fight even the Republican proposal when the time comes, but for the moment they are concentrating against outright repeal.

As a matter of procedure in an extra session, the problem is the same whether the Republican or Democratic party is in control. Neither party is completely wet or dry and the debate in the extra session of congress, which would not finish its labors before the summer of 1933, would, if agreement were reached on a new amendment, not reach the people for another year or two thereafter. Forty legislatures meet once every two years and usually in the odd year. Thus when they adjourn in January or February, 1933, they will not meet again until January, 1935. If congress does agree on a new amendment in the summer of 1933, and that would be expeditious work, it would take extra sessions in many states to enact the necessary election laws whereby delegates to state constitutional conventions could be chosen. If the matter is left till January, 1935, obviously it would be 1935 before the election machinery would be put in motion. The wets will try to accelerate matters by asking for special sessions of the legislatures to secure enabling legislation.

Judging by experience with other amendments in which there has been less controversy than there is going to be on the prohibition question, two years is not too much time to allow for the probable duration of the ratification process after the summer of 1933, when congress presumably will have acted. Hence 1935 would appear to be an early date and 1936 a maximum in which approval of a new amendment could be secured. Thus the change in the eighteenth amendment may be a subject for discussion in general parts of the country in the 1936 presidential campaign, with attempts at both national conventions to declare themselves on the issue.

City Council Asked to Buy Dam Property

Chilton Residents Believe Site Could be Devel- oped for Sports

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Chilton. A petition to be presented at the next meeting of the city council is being circulated in the city. The petition requests the city to purchase the dam at State-st. the land on which it rests, and the land extending from the State-st. bridge to the Madison-st. space. The dam is owned by Ernest Dumke, who uses it to furnish water power for his mill. Last summer during the extreme drought the river practically dried up, causing fish to die, and giving off an offensive odor.

The petition already has many signers. People of this city believing it would provide an adequate swimming pool, facilities for boating and fishing in summer, and a skating rink in the winter. They also believe the location has possibilities of becoming a beauty spot, and could be developed at no great cost to the city.

The annual school census for Chilton shows the total number of pupils in the district between the ages of four and 20 to be 555, this being the same number as given in last year's census. This year there are six more girls than last year, and fewer boys, the number of girls being 295, and the number of boys 260.

Miss Georgiana McGrath, who teaches in Cleveland, Ohio, has arrived here to spend the remainder of her vacation with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Frank McGrath.

At a recent meeting of the Chilton school board, William McHale, new member of the board was elected president. Earl Kroehke, vice president, and William Strauss, secretary.

John Minahan, Elmer Pfeiffer, Joseph Mand and Lester Blonien left Friday morning for Fort Sheridan to spend a month at the Citizens Military Training camp.

Miss Hedwina Eberle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Eberle of the town of Charlestown, and Joseph Kubale, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kubale of New Holstein were married at 6 o'clock Tuesday morning at St. Augustine church in this city, the services being performed by the Rev. Francis McKeough. The bride was attended by her cousin Miss Loretta Carl of St. Cloud, and the bridesmaids by her brother Joseph. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast and dinner were served at the home of the bride's parents, to close friends and relatives.

Twenty members of Chilton Aer. No. 1288 F. O. E. were in Fond du Lac Wednesday evening to attend the meeting of the Fond du Lac Aer. This visit was made as an expression of appreciation to Dr. W. T. J. Doyle, state aer. president, and a member of the Fond du Lac Aer. and other Fond du Lac members. A program, lunch and refreshments were provided by the Fond du Lac aer.

Among those from Chilton who attended were Oliver McCarthy, president; H. G. Horst, P. W. president; Roland Miller, vice president; John Hantz, secretary; John Berens, treasurer; J. B. Jensen, I. G.; M. J. Wirth, O. G.; Richard Rank, trustee; Daniel Flaxley, past worthy president; Jerome Fox, Martin Sahn, Clem Kerna, M. J. ## Catholic Men's Club Loses to Plywoods

(Special to Post-Crescent)
New London — The Catholic Men's club in its game with the Plywoods softball team Friday evening nearly sprung the biggest upset of the season. The Plywoods won, 11 to 7, but ran into the stiffest competition they have met thus far. Bessert saved the Plywoods a lot of grief in the fifth inning when he made a one handed catch on a hit which had a home run label on it. Dayton and Johnnie Polaski contributed the fielding features for the Catholics.

The Men's club jumped into a lead when they got three runs in the first two innings. The Plywoods came back and by the fourth inning had a one run lead. In the sixth inning, both teams were seven all. In the eighth the Plywoods scored three times when Justinger and Sewall went after pop fly and between them dropped it. The Plywoods also scored one more run in the ninth inning on Krohn's home run.

On Wednesday evening Borden took a good beating from Cristy, 15 to 7. Borden infield errors gave Cristy their easy victory. On Sunday morning Cristy play Spilkers at Appleton. Last week they defeated this same team on their home grounds.

Two Valuable Dogs Lost, Owners Report

New London — Two valuable dogs were lost Friday. One belonged to Dr. F. J. Pfeiffer and the other to Lance Algiers. Dr. Pfeiffer's dog, a water spaniel, was run over by a truck, while the Algiers dog, trained for hunting, was hung in the back yard of the Algiers residence. The dog had been chained so that he might have the run of a woodpile. On Friday the dog instead of jumping down from the woodpile as he usually did went to the far end of the pile and strangled itself.

SYNOPSIS: Since she cannot marry Mark Merriman, who is penniless and has no prospects, Sandra Kent decides to ask John Anderson to give him a position in the Congo, one source of Anderson's wealth. She knows that both men love her, although Anderson is married and separated from his wife, and has never told Sandra of his feeling. He has remained her adviser, almost her guardian, as problems arise through her lack of money. Sandra is all the more determined not to marry Mark, although she loves him, because her father has told her to marry for money and made her feel she was unfitted to do anything else. At present she lives with her sister Flora, who married Benjamin Lomax because he was wealthy. Anderson tells Sandra, one evening, that he has loathed the Congo. Nevertheless, Sandra asks him if he will give Mark a post there.

her, and sometimes her vanity wanted to hear him say it. She said with a faint laugh: "It seems a pity. I should have thought you were the kind of man women would have adored." She said quickly: "You are sneering at me." "No. I was only a little amused. From what you said some men—perhaps more conceited than I am—might have concluded that you found me rather 'adorable' yourself." "I'm very fond of you—you know that." He bowed. "And I am very grateful." "Now you are sneering again. It is I who should be grateful to you." "For my money?" he asked quietly. "Or for my devotion?" She said, hoping to rouse him: "So far I have only had your money." "Perhaps it is all you want," he said. There was a short silence, then Sandra said vehemently: "I think money is the most hateful thing in the world." "Don't you mean the lack of it?" he asked. "It's the same thing," she maintained. "I believe all the sins of the world are committed either because you haven't any, or because you have too much." He looked at her steadily. "What particular sin are you thinking of at the moment?" he asked. She met his eyes hotly. "The stupid sin that makes me take money and expensive presents from you—greediness I suppose it is really, and love of luxury." "The sin which we all commit in some form or another." She said with bitter animosity: "I know you are only saying that to be kind to me. John, I don't want you to be kind, or try to disguise the truth. You know that I'm up to my eyes in debt, and that the only possible way out for me is to marry a rich man as Flora did. I suppose in a way I'm not to blame. I've been brought up so that now it's utterly impossible for me to be happy without the things which only money can buy." She leaned her chin on her hand. "You can't be happy if you're poor," she said with conviction. "How do you know?" "My father used to say that love and marriage ought to be kept quite apart—if you want love to last." "And is that what you are proposing to do?" Anderson asked. "What do you mean?" "Only that Merriman can stay in America if you want him to stay," Anderson said quietly. The hot blood mounted to her forehead. "What do you mean? Why should I want him to stay? ... he isn't anything to me—only just a friend. Why do you say a thing like that?" "Are you trying to disguise the truth, Sandra?" She met his eyes unflinchingly. Though she stammered a little as she answered: "Why should I? I have nothing to disguise." Anderson passed a hand rather wearily across his eyes. "The music has stopped," he said. "Shall we go back?" But Sandra did not move; she was twisting her hands together nervously. "I should hate fevers and tinned food—and loneliness," Sandra said after a moment, trying to laugh. He rose. "Well—tell young Merriman to come and see me some time." Sandra rose also. "John... you're not angry with me?" Copyright, 1932, by Ruby M. Ayres

Former Teammates Clash When Kaws and Appleton Battle

Fortin, Evans Once Hurlers For Two Rivers

Latter Has Struckout 28 Batters in Two Exhibitions

VALLEY LEAGUE	W.	L.	Pct.
Green Bay	9	5	.643
Kaukauna	7	5	.583
Wisconsin Rapids	6	6	.571
Kimberly	5	6	.538
Appleton	5	8	.385
Shawano	4	10	.286

SUNDAY'S GAMES
Shawano at Green Bay.
Kimberly at Wisconsin Rapids.
Appleton at Kaukauna.

LEFTY FORTIN and Red Evans who a few years ago were the two rivers pitching staff when that club was leading the Lake Shore leaguers, or whatever they then were called, and who soundly trounced Kimberly-Little Chute in a title playoff, will be the opposing pitchers tomorrow afternoon when Appleton and Kaukauna clash at the latter city.

Fortin now is hurling for Kaukauna, Marty Lamers and John Coppes, and Evans will be doing the tossing for the Appleton Collegians. The former having been with the Kaws all season, the latter joining Appleton last week.

Evans defeated Kimberly last Sunday and downed the Hartford Giants of Chicago Thursday evening and thereby gained for himself quite a following in the city. He has stirred the popular imagination with 28 strikeouts in two games and indications are a flock of Appleton fans will follow him to Kaukauna.

Natural—The dual as one incentive and the natural rivalry between Kaukauna and Appleton as the other, indications are that the game will be almost a sell out. Appleton is down the ladder but the fans feel Evans and a few runs will help pull the Kaws down a couple more notches and help even up league standings.

Manager Leo Murphy will depend on his regular lineup for Sunday's game. Eggert will work at first base, Sonny Tornow at second, George Wenzel at short and Eddie Donegan at third. The four young men swing the most potent ball clubs in the league and in recent games have had a tendency to break loose with a solid wallop just about the time it is needed. Last week Tornow unloaded two homers for edification of the fans.

In the outfield there will be Bowlers in center and Lake, Hillman, Crowe and Vengler ready to take over the other two positions.

Kaws in 2nd Place
Kaukauna, in second place because of two games on the postponed list, will have to exert more than ordinary energy to stay there and trail Green Bay, league leader, which is conceded a victory over the lowly Shawano club.

Shawano will catch for the Kaws. Red Smith or Collins will play first. Marty Lamers will cavort at second, Connie Dunn at short and Phillips at third. In the outfield there will be Les Smith, Joe Vils and Esler. Dunn and Red Smith are members of the Madison Blues team and may not show. That being the case Poca may be drafted to play shortstop.

Another feature argument of the week-end will be the battle at Green Bay between the league leading Sox and the revamped Shawano. It will be "Joe Petka Day" at the Bay's ball lot and hundreds from out of town fans are expected to witness the encounter. It will be Petka and Morgan for Green Bay while Lefty Rubin and Ray Handy have been named to work for Shawano.

Wisconsin Rapids will be at home to Kimberly. Manager Reed of the Rapids read the riot act to his ball tossers after the double defeat at Shawano last Sunday and it will probably be a different looking outfit on the field against the Papermaker. Joe Muench, the Kimberly pitcher, will choose between Zeneffski, Fahrtenkrug and Behr for his twirler while Red Ashman is to wear the mask and mitt. Eastling and McLean draw the nomination as the Wisconsin Rapids' battery.

Appleton Rider Seeks State Title

Russell "Kid" Fischer, Entered in Motorcycle Hill Climb

Russell "Kid" Fischer, who recently moved to Appleton from Kaukauna, and who has ridden to several motorcycle hill climbing records has entered the ride Sunday at Slinger at which the state title will be decided. The Slinger hill is 255 feet high with a 68 per cent grade and should be climbed in about eight seconds.

Fischer claims the national hill climbing title which he says was decided last year at Rochester, N. Y. when 70 riders competed. The 425 foot hill was negotiated in 21 seconds. He recently finished second in a climb at Lamont, Ill.

Fischer plans to ride a special machine with one of the most powerful motors in the country built by a Milwaukee dealer. It turns over 6,000 revolutions a minute.

Entries in Tennis Meet Close Monday

Twenty Appleton boys who rate as junior tennis players, and 14 who are listed in the cadet class have signed up for the first annual city wide tennis meet being sponsored by the Pond Sport Shop at the Y. M. C. A. courts. The entry list will close Monday and drawings will be made Monday evening. The youngsters then will go to work Tuesday morning.

Four doubles teams have entered in the junior class and a like number in the cadet class. A tournament was planned for girls but none have entered and sponsors have decided to drop the event.

Red Birds Climb To Within Seven Games of AA Top

Minneapolis Blasts Two Milwaukee Hurlers and Wins 13 and 8

Chicago.—A lot of major league managers who are trying to rally their men to catch the Pirates and Yankees would like to discover what kind of dynamite Billy Southworth is feeding his Columbus Red Birds.

Yesterday they took a doubleheader from Louisville's Colonels and drew up to within one game of second place and six and one-half games of the top. Minus the services of their long distance clouter, Pat Crawford, a victim of a split bone in his left hand, the Red Birds dug out the Colonels, 6 to 4, in the afternoon and then polished them off 7 to 3, under the arc lights. Phil Weiner held the enemy to four hits in the first engagement and Grabowski allowed but six in the night game while Southworth's men cracked out a two-game total of 23 safe blows.

Minneapolis only lost a half game, however, as the Millers blasted two Milwaukee pitchers for 17 hits and a 13 to 8 victory. They produced their runs in job lots, scoring four each in the second and seventh innings and five more in the eighth. Ernie Smith led the attack with a home run, double and single, driving in seven runs. Indianapolis ran into Winegarner, Toledo ace, in another night game and lost one of the best played games of the season, 1 to 0. Winegarner allowed but three hits and his mates pushed over the only run of the stirring pitching battle in the eighth. Campbell and Heving hurtled for the Indians.

Kansas City broke the fourth place tie with Milwaukee by taking another close one from St. Paul, 2 to 1. Smith gave the Saints but five hits and might have scored a shut out except for three errors. The victory gave the Blues possession of fourth place by nine percentage points over Milwaukee.

Vagabonds Clash With Kalupa Bakery Team

Appleton Vagabonds softball team will try to annex its tenth game of the season from the Kalupa Bakers of Kaukauna Sunday morning. The Vags have won nine games and lost two so far this season, trimming the Service Laundries of Kaukauna last Sunday 13 and 6.

Tomorrow's game will start at 10:30 at the city playgrounds, Kaukauna, with Eggert on the mound and Redfield behind the plate for the locals. Eggert, E. Horn, Dalke, H. Horn, Dunham, Ingerson, Rehfeldt, Krueger, Rothberg, Huhn and Kahler will make up the Appleton squad.

Sixth Ward Juniors Lead in Ball League

Bobbie Rule's Sixth ward softballers in the Pond Sports Junior league, won another game Friday afternoon when it battled 10 innings to beat the First ward team 5 and 4. The Sixth warders took the top. All games yesterday went extra innings. The Fourth ward beat the Second ward 5 and 4 in 11 innings and the Third beat the Fifth 9 and 5 in ten innings.

Lyn Lardner Wins State Golf Title

Oconomowoc Youth, One Down in Morning, Cops On 35th Green

Waukesha.—Lyn Lardner of Oconomowoc, who still looks forward to his eighteenth birthday anniversary, today holds the coveted prize of amateur golf in Wisconsin.

Handling his irons in a way that dismayed veterans, the gawking youth late yesterday triumphed in the state amateur tournament at the Waukesha Golf and Country club course over Don McKenna of Madison.

Lardner grabbed the prize in the thirty-fifth green, the water and sand trap and a play. A rally of 5,000 cheered the new champion.

Lardner won his crown in the afternoon. The completion of the morning round found him in a slump, although both came in with total scores of 78.

McKenna started the final eighteen holes in the afternoon with a burst of speed, taking the first hole handily. But then Lardner settled down to work and on the next two holes produced par and four, which squared matters.

Sonny Tornow Tops Valley's Heavy Hitters

Two Homers Last Sunday Gives Him Total of Five for Season

SONNY TORNOW, Appleton second sacker, is the home running of the Valley league with five circuit swats to his credit. Kuenn, Wisconsin Rapids; Muldowney, Green Bay and Les Smith, Kaukauna, are next in line with three homers apiece.

Chief Waukechon, Shawano, and Bill Sandrin, Wisconsin Rapids, are the pace setters in the triple line, each having cracked out a trio of three sockers.

Irish Wall, Green Bay, leads the double producers with seven and Freddie Hackbarth, another Bayite, is second up with a half dozen.

The extra base hit records are as follows:

Homers

Wrightstown and Athletics Clash Here Tomorrow

Merchants Invade Neenah; Appleton Teams Tied For 2nd Place

LITTLE FOX LEAGUE	W.	L.	Pct.
Oshkosh	10	0	1.000
Appleton Merchants	7	3	.700
Appleton Athletics	7	3	.700
Neenah	6	4	.600
Green Bay	6	4	.600
Little Chute	5	5	.500
Menasha	4	6	.400
DePere	3	8	.273
Wrightstown	2	9	.182
Darby	1	9	.100

SUNDAY'S GAMES
Wrightstown at Appleton Athletics.
Appleton Merchants at Neenah.
Menasha at Oshkosh.
DePere at Little Chute.
Darby at Green Bay.

It will be the Appleton Athletics' turn to entertain the home folks who follow Little Fox league baseball tomorrow, and the Fourth ward aggregation will battle Wrightstown at Interlake park. The Wrightstown club is next to the bottom of the heap with two wins and nine defeats.

The Athletics are tied with their brother leaguers, the Merchants, for second place honors and the only interesting thing in league play this season is which of the two clubs will finish on top. Refke will take the mound for the A's and hopes to keep his team right behind the Oshkosh Cards who lead the pack.

Appleton Merchants are meeting Neenah tomorrow at Lakeside diamond and to stay in second place will be no easy task. The Neenah aggregation is third in league standings and is a tough team to beat under any conditions.

The last time the clubs met the Merchants eked out a win in ten innings after trailing until the ninth when the score was tied. Buss will pitch for Appleton and Eddie Helms will catch. Kuehl is booked at first, Bedford at second, Pettler short, P. King third, and N. Pope, M. Pope, M. King and Priebe in the outfield.

For Neenah, Don Kratzsch, formerly of Appleton Athletics, will pitch and Harold Schroeder, formerly of the Merchants will play third base.

Racine Fish Markets, All-Stars Play Sunday

THE Pond All-Star softball team will entertain for the home fans again at 10:20 Sunday morning at Brandt park. The All Stars will be only half the entertainment, however, the Fish Markets of Racine furnishing the other half the show, one that promises to be as interesting as ever put on at Brandt park.

Tomorrow's game will be in the nature of a booster affair for state tournament time is drawing near and the Pond management hopes to have enough nickles and dimes on hand to send the team to Madison. The state meet will be held the first weekend in September.

Sunday's game will feature one of the ranking softball hurlers in the state in Joe Peenick, Fish Markets hurler. He has been tossing the leather for something like eight years and has hung up a string of no-hit, no-run games that would make a major league pitcher blush for shame.

Reports are that he has picked up three or four "hall of fame" games already this season and feels there's no reason why he can't set Appleton down as another victim. But Peenick isn't the whole ball club. Just the other night Joe Flannagan, manager of the Markets, cracked a homer and busted up a ball game that caught defeat to a Racine team that previously had bowed to no-hit. And the bases were loaded at the time, too. It was the Markets fifth straight win in league play.

The Sports under the direction of Eddie Starnard have been working hard for tomorrow's game, determined to get back into the good graces of the fans. They have turned out for at least two practice tilts this week and promise to be on their best behavior tomorrow morning.

Forest Merrill has drawn the hurling assignment for tomorrow and Huhn will do the catching. Bobbie Rule is slated for third base, Bowley for right short, Refke left short, Priebe left field, Crane center field, Hal Schroeder second base, Art Kratzsch first and Van Winkle right field.

Tomorrow's game is being started at 10:20 to the folks, all may get back home before the potatoes get cold and wives and mothers become sorely vexed and angered.
